More Than a Color Red Symbolizes Woodrow Itself

Sometimes a symbol becomes so closely identified with what it represents that it is impossible to distinguish the two. Such is the case with red and Woodrow Wilson.

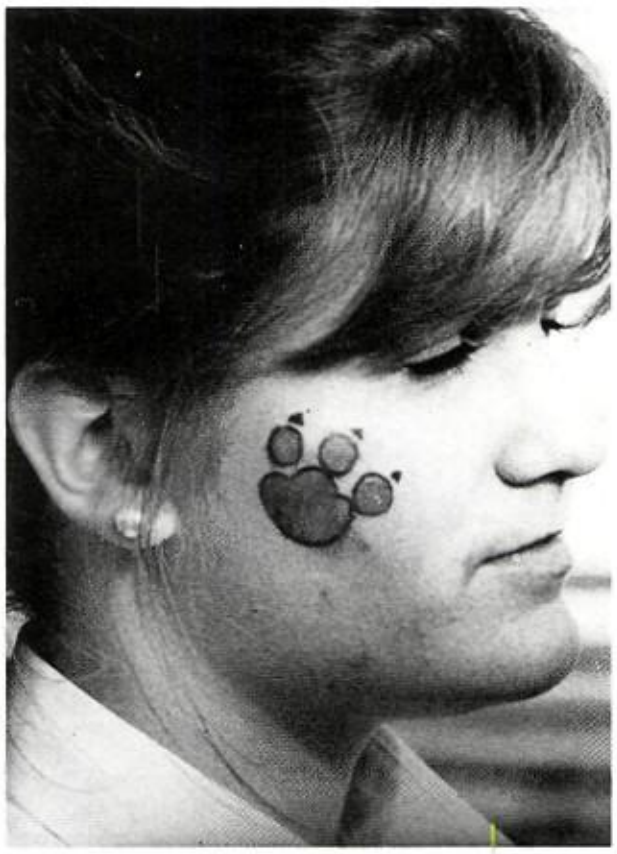

The color red characterizes school life and the most basic way begins with the school itself. The towering three story red brick building, with its unique architectural style, is different from any other school in Dallas. The color makes a statement that says, "Stop, and take a look at us; we've got what it takes to be the best." Red dominates in traditional ways: letter jackets, uniforms, football jerseys, cheerleader megaphones, spirit ribbons, and even yearbook covers. During assemblies an games, fans and students yell, "G big red!" choosing color again t symbolize the school.

More than merely a color, re symbolizes Woodrow Wilso itself. It is impossible to think o one without the other coming t mind. The vibrancy, originality and boldness of red visualizes th intangible spirit of the school an the enthusiasm of its students. Fo fifty-six years, Woodrow graduate have carried the color with them into the community. The achievements and ac- complishments of these graduate and those yet to come show tha Woodrow students will always b forever red.

ALL FOR ONE

Wildcats Stand United

Whether established through groups or one on one, friendships were a goal of most students in high school. In fact, they formed the foundation for many of the most treasured memories of the high school experience.

Friendship also extended itself to school unity. Students learned to work together for common purposes, whether it was on the basketball court or in the classroom preparing a group project. Working together, students presented a united front and their support of each other proved that the Wildcats were all for one.

Accepting the

CHALLENGE

Challenge.

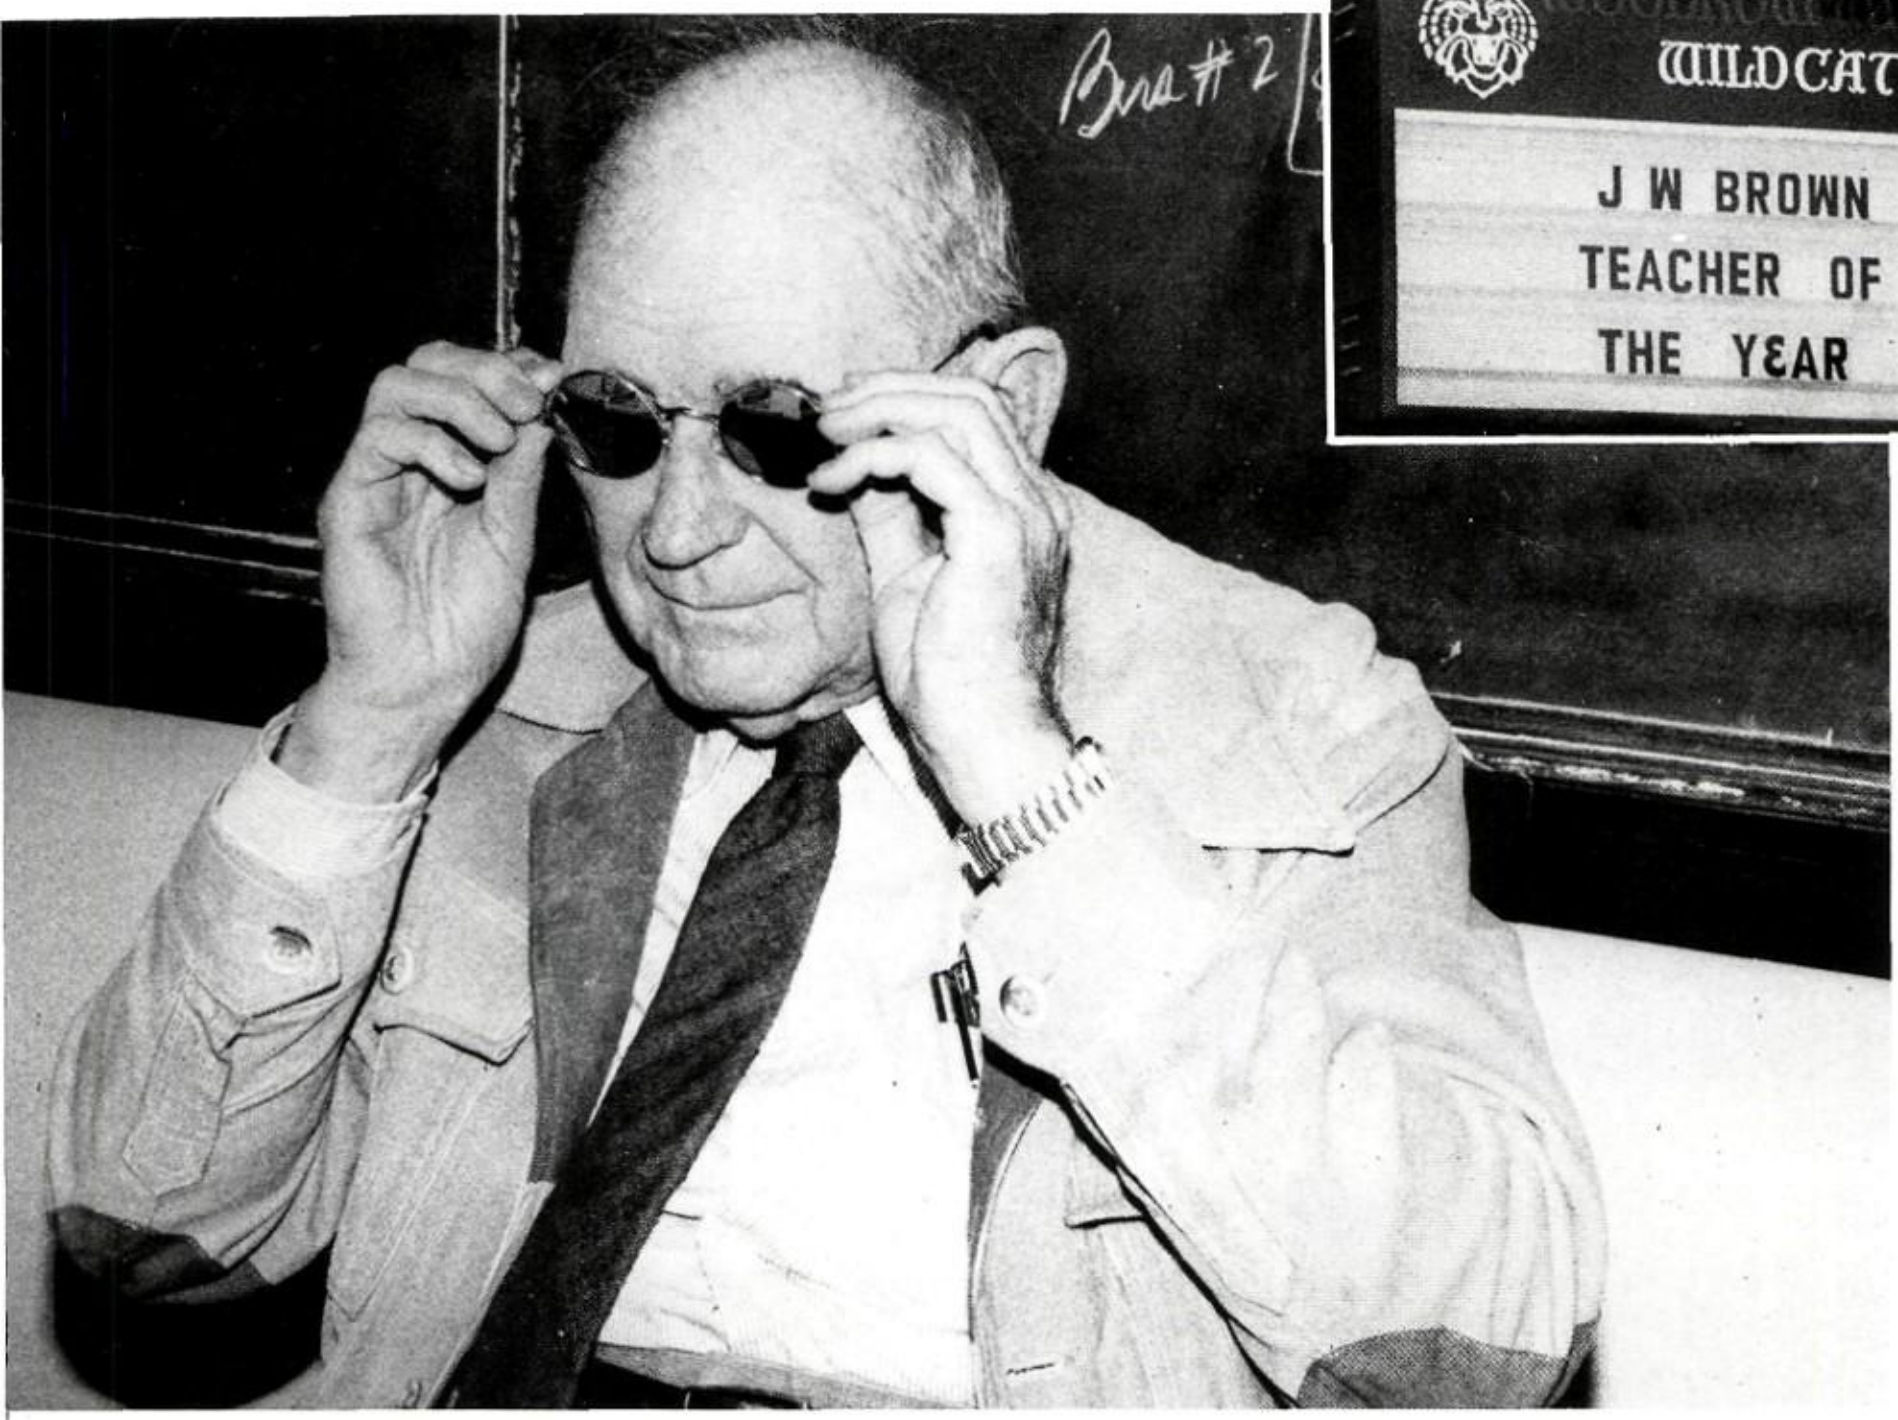

Some students thrive on it, while others run the other way when they see it coming. For the most part, however, Woodrow students met challenges head on.

Like none other before it, this was a year of change. House Bill 72, passed last year and in full effect for the 1985-86 term, placed what many considered to be roadblocks in the way of students. Those who participated in extracurricular activities were required to pass all courses. Without a doubt, students took homework and tests more seriously. In accepting the challenge to succeed academically, most students were more than equal to the task. Very few were forced to sit in the shadows because of grades.

Legislative action changed other aspects of school life. Curriculum standards were raised, assemblies were eliminated, exam exemptions were deleted, early graduations were nixed and attendance regulations were changed, to name a few new measures. With considerable creativity, students accepted the challenge and adapted to the changes. Participation and standards rarely suffered.

Students accepted challenges in other smaller, less visible ways. Some took after school jobs to earn their own money. Others signed up for difficult courses to learn something new. Still others entered the building as strangers and graduated as friends.

Accepting the challenge, Woodrow students knew no other way.

SPIRIT . . .

One of the most intangible elements of any school is spirit. It's rather easy to recognize in its traditional form of cheerleaders and football teams, but it's much harder to see in the everyday routine of classes and homework.

Almost any student at Woodrow would agree that it was a banner year for spirit. One of the most obvious reasons for a resurgence in school pride was the return of a winning football team. Previously empty stadiums were packed for weekend contests and the cheerleaders really had something to cheer for. Likewise, the morning pep assemblies found limited popularity among the student body.

Students found something to get excited about off of the football field as well. Buckling down to studies, they improved standardized test scores and kept their eligibility for extracurricular activities. Numerous students were honored for their efforts in music, drama, art, journalism, speech, industrial arts, ROTC, sports and scholarship. Spirits were boosted when Woodrow's tradition of being one of the premiere schools in the city continued unbroken.

More than anything else, spir bonded the student body in a feelin of pride for the school. Those wh passed through its hallways an classrooms, gyms and playing field found that they would remain foreve red in spirit.

all we've got!

Yesterday Is Today

For the last fifty-seven years, thousands of students have walked the halls of Woodrow, attending classes and participating in athletics, clubs and activities. Together they have helped to leave a legacy of tradition.

Those traditions which involve seniors come readily to mind. Over the years, they have continued to appropriate the auditorium balcony and eat lunch at the same table. They arrived at school on the first day in limousines and Texas Taxis. Seniors have a cheer all their own, and it can be heard during lunch and pep assemblies.

Some of the material things that have remained unchanged are the cheerleaders' jackets, which have been the same since 1959, and the drill team uniforms, which have been unchanged for 26 years. Spirit ribbons have been around for decades, and each class continues to wear them in a particular way.

People at Woodrow have also become traditions. Several students are the third generation of their families to attend the school. In addition, many people will graduate from the school their parents attended. One teacher, J. William Brown, a 50 year veteran, has taught in the building for 34 years. Principal Wayne Pierce has also been at the school for well over 15 years, as well as several teachers.

Part of what breeds the forever red feeling among students is Woodrow's strong history of tradition.

Just as when the school first opened, students still proudly gather together to chorus, "Firm and undaunted ever we'll be, Hail to the school we love, Here's a toast to thee."

The special people and activities in the building can be found nowhere else, and sometimes it seems just like yesterday is today.

TRADITION

The drill team uniforms have remained unchanged since they were first chosen.

Making the GRADE

Homework! It's a common denominator among all high school students. Whether it involved reading, writing or solving problems, it seemed to catch up with everyone eventually.

Unique in appearance and attitudes, students were also unique in study habits. Some chose to study from the minute they got home from school until the minute they went to bed. Others waited until the last possible moment and crammed frantically the night before a test. Still others chose the passive method, studying not at all.

Along with amounts of studying, students were unique in the environments they chose. Stereos blasting and televisions loudly chattering didn't bother some, while other students needed an atmosphere as quiet as a morgue. The library and lunchroom were popular spots at school because they allowed one to get an assignment finished while keeping an ear out for the latest gossip.

Whatever the method or the amount, students all found that homework in high school was inevitable.

Seniors '86

"S-E-N-I-O-R-S, Seniors '86 are best!"

Everyone heard this yell from the first day of school until the last. The traditional anthem for seniors sounded during lunch periods, at assemblies and sports events, and at any gathering of seniors.

Seniors had more than just a yell to call their own, however. Traditionally, they sat at the same table in the lunch room, a place where underclassmen were not welcomed. In addition, they rented limousines for the first day of school when they enjoyed parading around the grounds before entering the building.

Many activities, particularly those at the end of the year, were strickly for seniors. They had brunch, luncheon and, of cours prom. Graduation parties we also organized.

Most of all, though, being senior involved entering a ne part of life. After twelve long year a senior found himself sayi goodbye to a familiar pattern an hello to life on his own.

Memories

Almost no other tradition in all of high school is as exciting as homecoming. Of course, boys and girls had their own ideas about the affair.

GIRLS: Worry, worry, worry. She thought about it all week long. Days of shopping paid off on the big night, when she spent hours getting dressed. Finally, the door bell rang. Frantically, she rushed around, ripping curlers out of her hair and snagging stockings. Not until she stpepped into the car did she relax.

BOYS: Money, money, money. He thought about it weeks in advance. Between dinner, dance tickets, corsages, mums and clothes, he'll be broke for months. Finally, the big night arrived and he scraped together enough money to pull it off. And in the end, he decided every cent was well spent.

After a week of spirited activities, including dress-up days and a community pep assembly at Lakewood Bank, the Wildcats won their football game. The following night, the dance, with a theme of Magic Moments, was held at Winfrey Point.

Romance.

All high school students had dreams and fantasies about the perfect romantic evening. Fireside kisses, moonlit walks, dinners by candle light and flowers every week figured heavily in these dreams.

Most of the time, however, reality didn't match the fantasy. Girls found themselves frustrated when their guys gave up their company for a night at the basketball game with their friends. Likewise, guys didn't like finding out that their girlfriends were passing out the inside scoop on their dates. Instead of long, romantic evenings, many couples found themselves snatching a few moments between homework, jobs, and school activities.

In spite of the problems, however, most students would agree that falling in love — and sometimes falling out of love — were an important part of the high school experience. Problems or not, life would not have been the same without long telephone conversations, fighting and making up, surprise presents, passing notes, sharing lockers, and Saturday night dates.

The story began in a hillbilly town, Dawgpatch, which the government decided to use for a bomb testing ground. The citizens were bound and determined to find something in the town that was worthy enough to save it. The story was also about romance between Daisy and Abner, protrayed by Tracy Hagemann and Andy Morgan.

The case also included Billy Hartmann as Marryin' Sam, Travis Hines as Pappy Yokum, Sara Cely as Mammy Yokum, Renee Elton, as Apassionata Von Climax, Tom Malin as General Bullmoose, and Andre Copling as Evil Eye Fleagle. Many other students served as singers and dancers in the production directed by Mrs. Marca Lee Bircher.

A RETURN TO GLORY

7-3 Cats' Best in Years

For the first time since the glory days of the fifties and sixties, the Wildcats had a winning season, finishing with an impressive 7-3 record.

Students were pleasantly surprised at the beginning of the school year with the team's 42-0 romp of Diamond Hill. With the offense under the steady guidance of junior Billy Hartmann and the hard running of senior Leo Robinson, the Cats also downed West Mesquite, 12-6.

The team maintained its winning form for several more weeks with consistent offense and strong defense. A senior dominated defensive backfield included Don Young, Anthony Whitaker, and Reggie Daniels. Other seniors contributing to the team were kick returner Ray Lopez and lineman Micheal Jackson.

Under the leadership of the seniors, the team went on to avenge last year's embarrassing loss to DeSoto, 27-16. Without any signs of a letdown, they rolled on to beat Bishop Lynch, 14-0, and Seagoville, 34-12, ending the first half of the season 5-0. Players, students, and faculty found themselves thinking of a district championship and the playoffs.

Hopes of an undefeated season ended with Lincoln. In the first half of the game, the Cats took a 14-7 lead. They could not hold off the Tigers, however, and they ended up being shut out in the second half, losing 14-28.

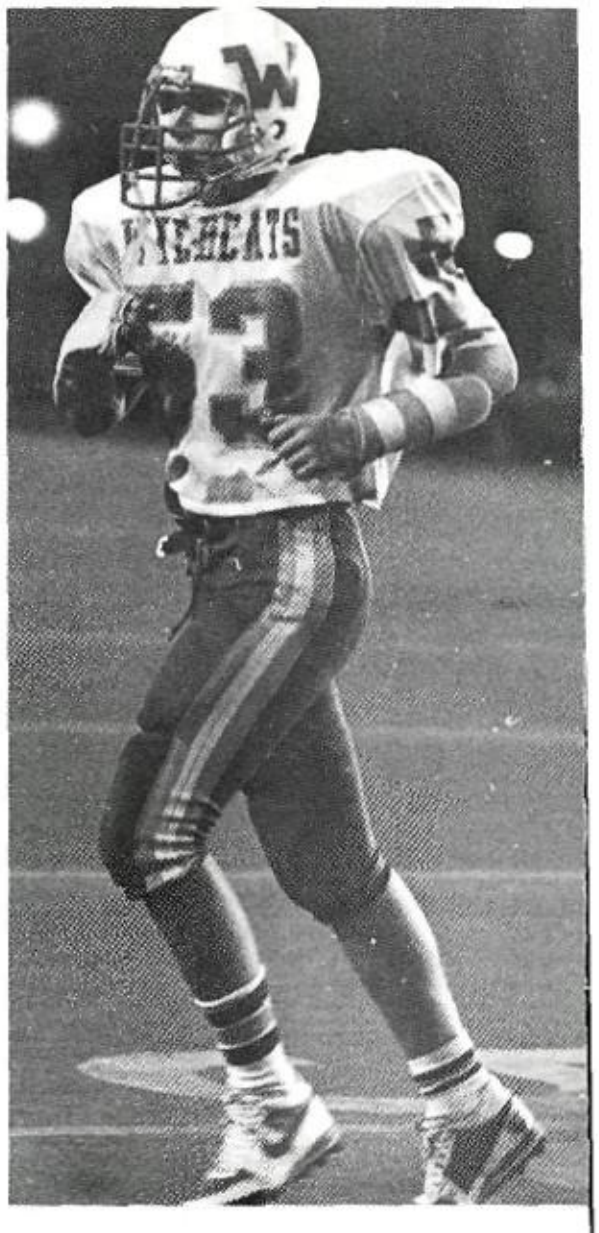

Next week, though, the team came to clinch a homecoming victory, shutting out North Dallas, 14-0. The momentum did not carry over, however, with next two weeks producing disappointing losses. Madison, despite being down the first half, came back to snatch a 28-13 victory. An 8-12 defeat at the hands of Hillcrest offered one bright spot when Leo Robinson ran for a 99 yard touchdown.

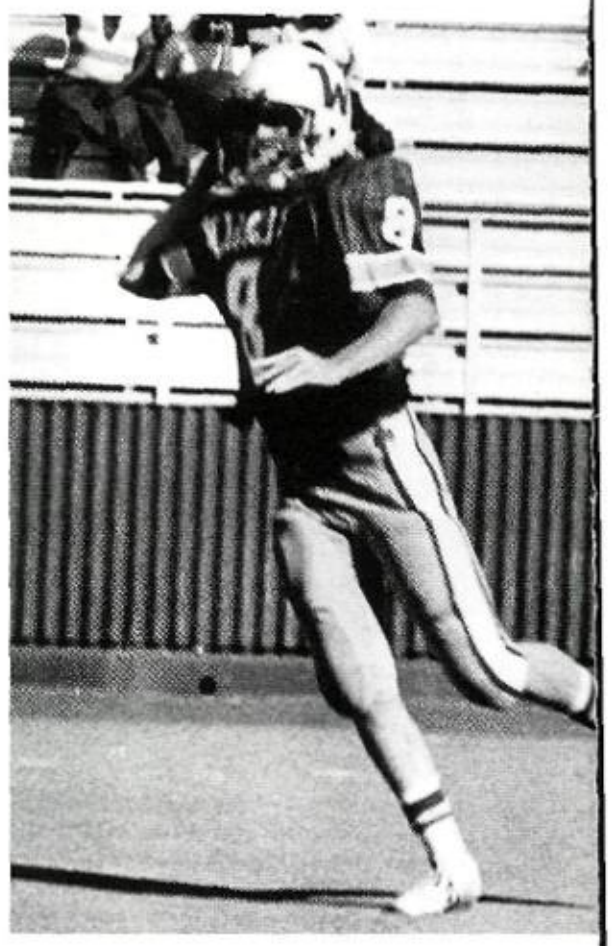

The final game of the season was a tough battle against Adamson. The depression of the Hillcrest game carried over, and the Cats found themselves down by 16 at halftime.

"At halftime," junior Dusty Walker said, "we told each other this was our last game and we didn't want to end the season with a loss, so we just went out and gave it our best."

And the best was what it took. With a series onside kicks and some impressive offense, the Cats chalked up 23 points and the defense only allowed one touchdown, giving the Cats a 23-22 victory and ending the season on a high note.

"I really enjoyed working with this group of young men," said Head Coach Troy Miller. "They were physically overmatched most of the time, but they overcame it by working hard. They had great attitudes."

Senior Audrey Cole put cross country on the map when she won the state title in 4A competition.

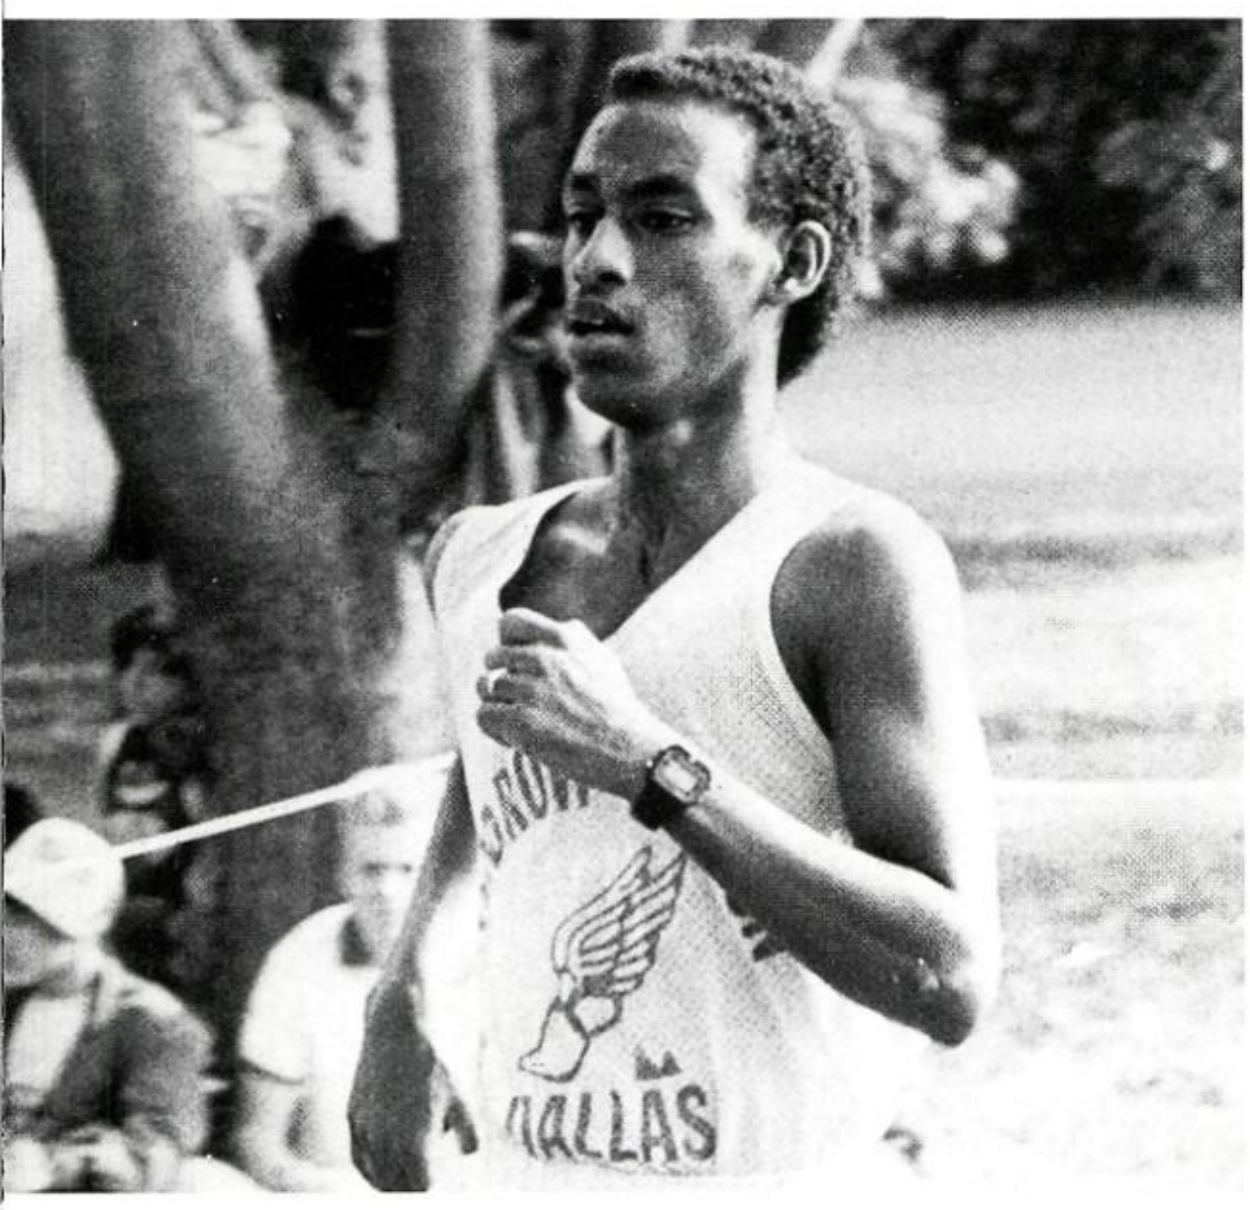

"She is an outstanding runner and probably the best runner the school has ever had," said Coach Peggy Cockrell. Senior Marcia Mielke also ran in the state meet, placing 49th. She was joined by freshman Shannon Holley, who took, 44th place.

"Shannon did an outstanding job for a freshman," said Coach Cockrell, "and Marcia has been a consistent runner for us."

For the first time in several years, the cross country program had enough runners to make up both a girls and boys team, rather than fielding individual runners. "They were excellent overall and they really knew what was going on, which was a great advantage in th outcome of the meets," sa Coach Steve Wolf.

The boys, who were hand capped by not having as many ru ners as the girls, did well for the first year, said Coach Wolf. "The got rained out on some meets," h said, "but they did a pretty goo job."

Varsity Team Hangs Tough

Although they struggled through a losing season, the spirits on the boys varsity basketball team remained high. Coach Mike Kerby said he was "disappointed" in the overall record of the season, that they did have many heartbreaking losses by one or two points.

Starting players on the team were small forward Don Young, shooting guard Steve Walker, center Ron Majors, point guard Kevin Booker and forward Tony Jurica. Other contributers to the team were Andy Pate, Anthony Turner, Reggie Daniels, Greg Askew, Mike Smith and Wendell Walton.

"We worked really hard and I believe we deserved more wins, considering the effort the team gave," said Don Young.

The Wildcats' junior varsity team left a lot of people talking. With a 12-11-0 total record, the Wildcats surprised the larger schools with a team of variety. With such players as Scott Turner, who was the Wildcats' leading rebounder, Eric Ford, an all around good player, Edward Shepard, who was the premiere outside shooter, Troy Nelson, who has been known to make things happen, and strong player Calvin Freeny, the Wildcats were able to capture the consolation trophy at the Lakeview Centennial basketball tournament.

The team had many strong points such as quickness, experience, and talent. They also beat all time rivals Hillcrest and Lincoln. Coach Billy Clark said the team always stuck together and gave one hundred percent.

Freshman Basketball Team Excels to Great Heights!

The freshman basketball team had an exceptional season. With a dominantly tall team, they accumulated a record of 10-6.

"The team will contribute greatly to the success of the basketball program," said Coach Ron Elliott.

The Wildcats were credited with victories over some of the biggest teams in Dallas, including Lincoln and W. T. White. Some of the main contributors to a successful season were forward Gary Harper, tallest on the squad, forward Bradley Scott, center Jason Kulas, guards Rolando Huezo and Jason Overton.

"We really worked hard and earned every point we made," said Gary Harper. Coach Elliot said, "This year's team would be hard to match."

Defying Predictions, Volleyball Players Deliver a Pleasant

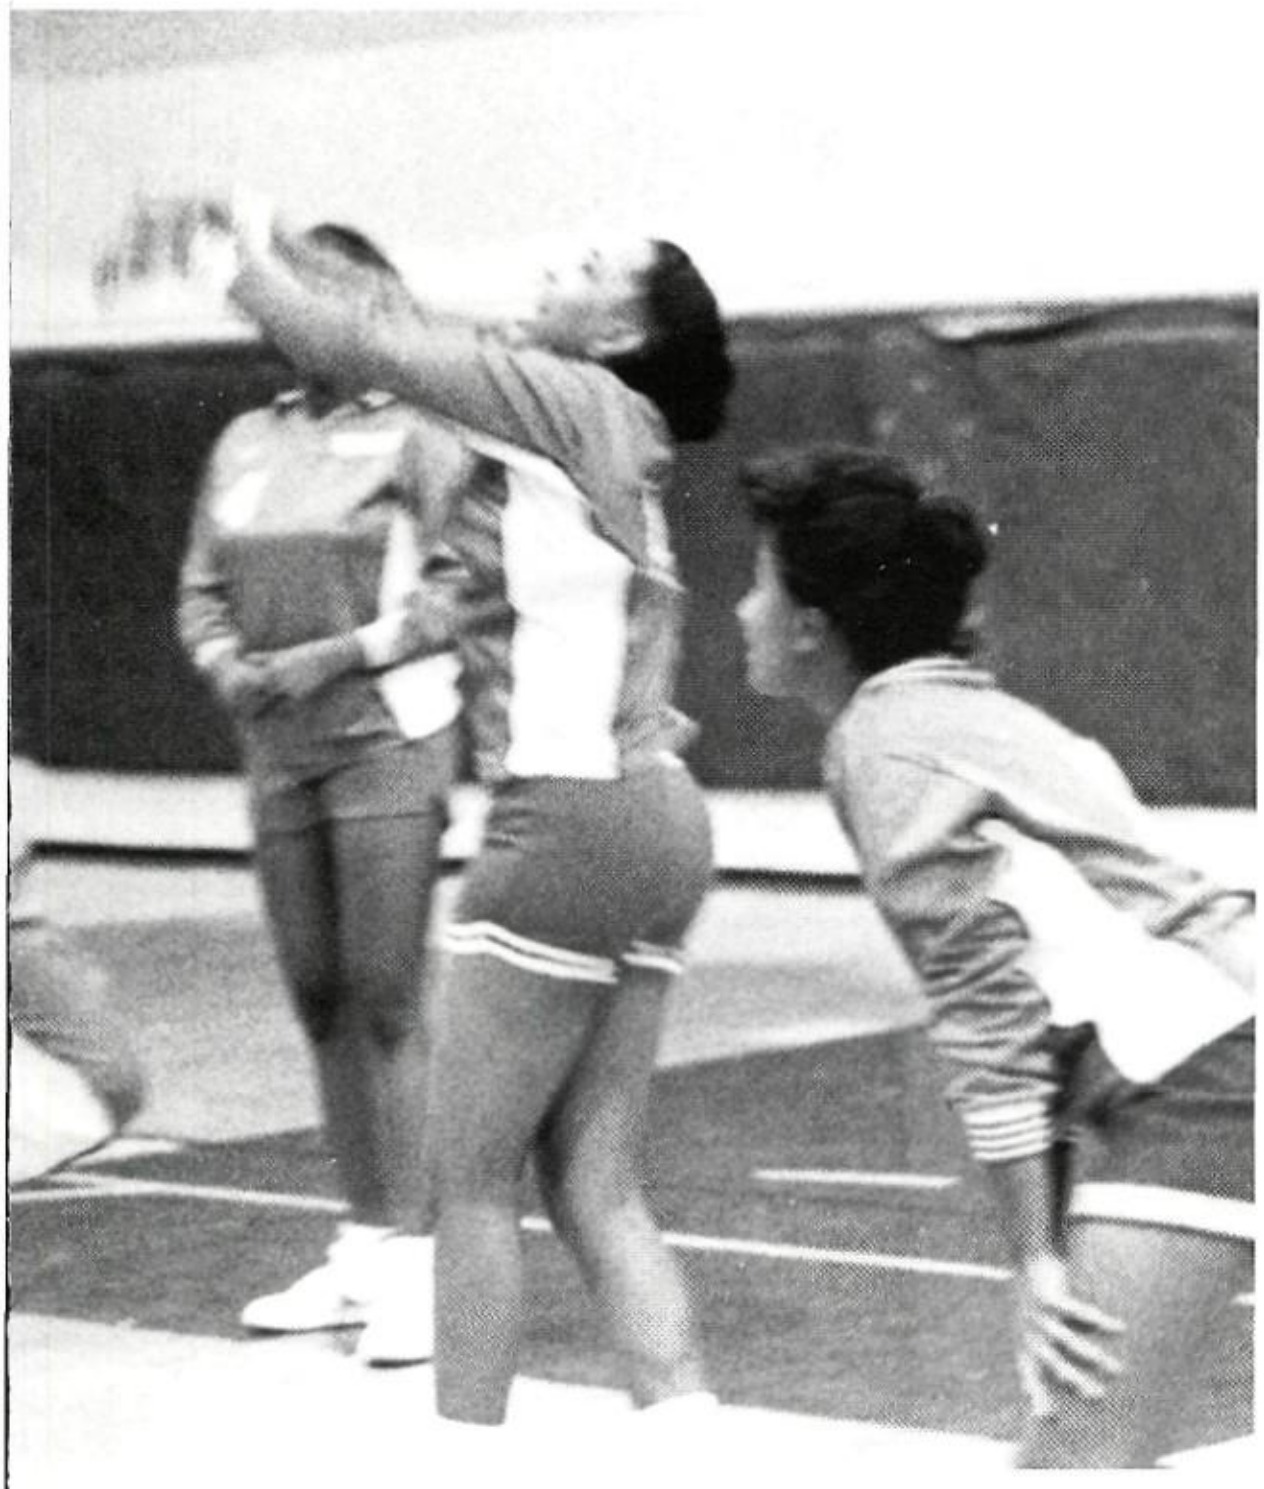

SURPRISE

Despite predictions of a poor season because of a lack of experienced players, the girls' volleyball team played exceedingly well.

New coach Cassandra McCurdy said the majority of the players had a great season. Senior Sybil Vation, she said, was the number one setter and all around defensive player, Tonya Lawrence was the number one power hitter, but freshman LaQuinda Meddford was right behind her she added. Shywannah Johnson, a sophomore, helped the team with her consistent serving, and Stephanie Frisbie, who was the second setter after Sybil, did a very good job, said Coach McCurdy. The two subs were Tsega Habtemariam and Teresa Matlock.

"The best thing about the team," she said, "was it had a lot of determination and pride." She said she was very proud of them for keeping their heads and coming in third in district.

Tonya and Sybil were named to the first all district team. Shywannah was named to the second, and Lashon Crowder was name honorable mention.

JV GIRLS GAIN EXPERIENCE, BUILD

PRIDE

The junior varsity volleyball team got off to a slow start due to a lack of experienced players, but as the season progressed, they improved quite a bit. Most of the girls on the team had never before participated in volleyball.

Starters were Maricruz Ramirez, Rosalinda Villanueva, Erica Banks, Wanda Arce, Scheffon Weaver and Debra Miles.

Coach Vicki Burris, new to the school, said, "The players were very enthusiastic and they enjoyed playing. They showed a lot of improvement and promise for the next year."

The girls' best game was against Madison. They competed well, and succeeded in defeating the Trojans who had been picked to finish first in the district.

WET AND WILD

Hard Working Team Excels

The swim team had a good season, finishing third in district behind Bryan Adams and Skyline. Senior Tom Griggs had a strong season and led the boys, who narrowly missed beating out Skyline for second in district. Sophomore swimmer Jimmy Nadalini also had a strong season, turning in several excellent times.

The girls will sorely miss the contributions of seniors Connie Dozier and Rona Fraser. Juniors Terry and Kelly Barginear, however, have proven strong swimmers and hold the promise of competitive girls swimming for the upcoming swim seasons. All in all, everyone swam well with most swimmers qualifying for regional and Kelly Barginear making it to finals.

RUN WITH THE WIND

As the Crusader went to press, the 45 runners on the track team were doing well under the direction of Coach Leon Hamilton. "I expect to be very competitive, and if all goes well, to compete in the district championship," he said.

Runners with excellent prospects for the season were Don Young in the mile relay, long jump, and shotput, Joey McClafferty in the 800 meter dash, Anthony Whitaker and Dusty Walker in the hurdles, and Melvin Lollar, James Scott, Scott Turner and Bobby Jefferson in the relays. Outstanding fieldman included Mike Rodriguez in the shotput, Juan Abelino, and Lorenzo Turner in the shotput and discus, and Bill Taylor in the discus.

In February, the Wildcats hosted the Wildcat Coca-Cola Relays. Over 30 teams participated, and the mile relay team of Don Young, Joey McClafferty, Melvin Lollar and Scott Turner claimed first prize.

"With the help of Coach Hamilton's hard work and the team's dedication, we should be one of the hardest teams to beat in the district," said junior Dusty Walker.

VICTORY

Girls' Track Offers Promise

Rain or shine, the girls' track team was always outside, working to improve their performances. Most of the team was new to the sport, leading to working hard to gain experience.

Coach Wolf said he wanted hard work and good attitudes from his runners. "I would much rather have somebody with limited abilities that works hard than people with bundles of talent who don't always want to work and be as good as they should," he said.

Leading competitors for the team were seniors Audrey Cole and Marcia Mielke. Freshman Shannon Holley also added strength to the team. Gail Drury, a senior, showed promise in the high jump. Christina Orsa, a long distance runner, was also expected to be an asset.

KICKIN' AROUND

The number of boys on the soccer team increased greatly from last year. There were twenty-four players including five returning players, making the rest of the team mostly newcomers.

"They play hard from the beginning of the game to the end," said Coach Wolf. Even though they were not victorious, the superb attitude kept their spirits strong, thus making it a well finished season. They can look forward to a better season next year."

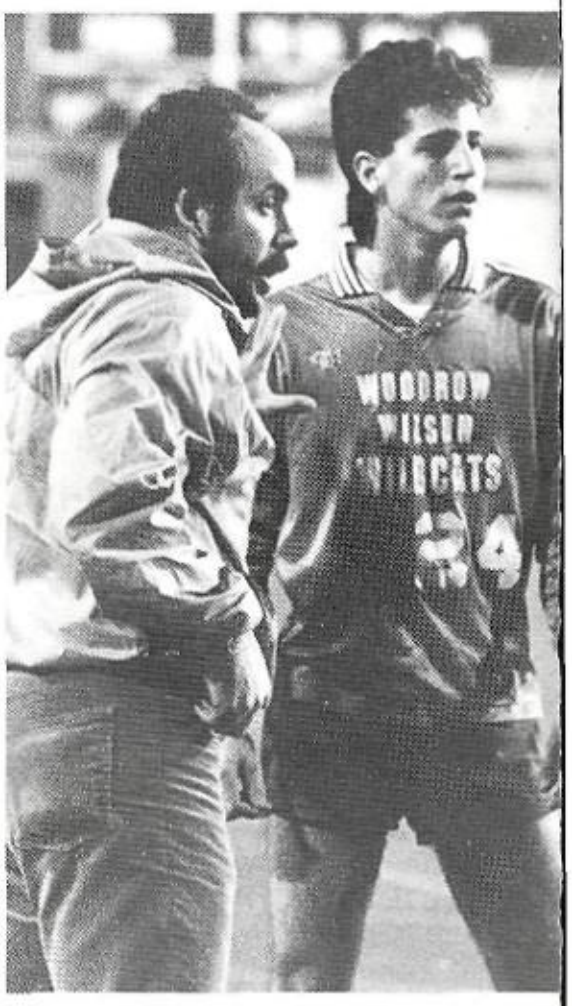

The team finished the season with a 3-6 record. The most outstanding players were John Paul Medina, Raymond Lopez, Andy Morgan, Alberto Santana, and Blaz Aguayo. "The team worked hard and played long to achieve the best it could for the school," said John Paul Medina. The most exciting part of the season was the victory over North Dallas. The team had tried very hard to win over many opponents before gaining this victory.

WORK-ING, GETTING IT DONE

Girls Improve

The girls' soccer team played well, despite the fact that most of the players were new.

Even though the girls' record was 3-8, Coach Danny Jones was more interested in looking ahead. "We are going to have a lot better season next year," he said. "This year, the players had never played together before." He was confident about the future since only two seniors graduated.

One of the best contributors to the team was senior Connie Lujan. Junior Maria Quevas, who has played for Woodrow since her freshman year, was an outstanding player, also.

Coach Jones said, "The team promises more action next year."

Baseball Team Overcomes Odds

New coach Calvin Wells and assistant, Mike Stovall, were looking forward to a promising baseball season.

At the beginning of the season, a small number of players came out, but the team added many players. "If everybody is eligible with the overall experience in the ball club, we can find little more depth and could be very competitive in the district race," said Coach Wells.

The most outstanding players are Jason Hammond, Ray Lopez, Marco Faz, Armando Neeza, and George Hernandez. "With some of the experience of our teammates, we can expect a winning season," said Raymond Lopez.

Classes

MR. WILDCAT

DON YOUNG

From his freshman to senior years in high school, Don Young assumed an active role in the athletic program. H participated in football, basketball and track and received numerous honors for his abilities. Don was also member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, the Senior Committee and the student council. His warm pe sonality and outstanding athletic ability were two of the reasons why he was chosen by the senior class as M Wildcat.

MISS WILDCAT

TRACY HAGEMANN

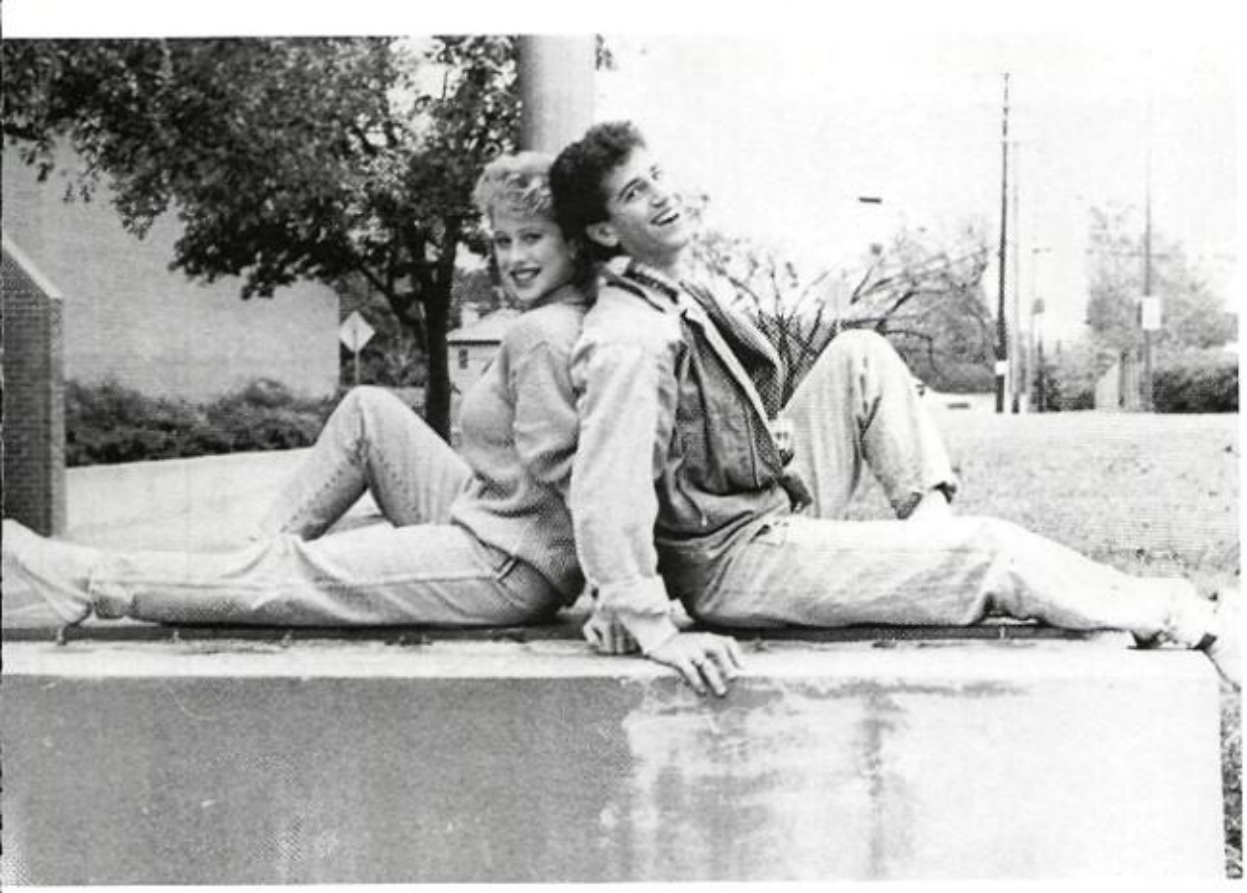

Tracy Hagemann, voted Miss Wildcat by the senior class, proved to be an asset to the school. During her four years at Woodrow, she was involved in many extra-curricular activities, including the Variations, cheerleading, journalism, musicals, athletics and student government. Her attractive smile and bright personality made her a favorite among her classmates. Her friendliness, involvement in a variety of school activities and distinct leadership were a few of the qualities which led to her election as Miss Wildcat.

Activities

Crusader STAFF Makes It Happen

A total of 23 students helped prepare the 1986 Crusader. With the exception of class portraits, they produced the entire book, from taking photographs to drawing layouts and giving detailed instructions to the publishing company.

The year started off by selling ads in order to lower the cost of the book for students.

From fall through early spring, staff members spent countless hours after school to meet deadlines under the guidance of co-editors Betsy Menke and Tracy Hagemann. Photographers Jamie Peavy and Shaley Brooks were led by chief photographer Alfredo Loredo. They also spent many hours taking and developing photographs both during and after school. Advisor to the group was Shellie Driscoll.

CONTEMPLATING

Kelly Marks thinks of new ideas for her pages while listening to directions from Mrs. Driscoll.

PLANNING

Members of the annual staff talk about new ideas for the 1986 yearbook.

CONCENTRATION

Connie Dozier and Shari Lerner draw up pages for the advertisements section.

News

Published seven times, the Wildcat addressed a wide range of issues. Major stories included a look at prayer in the classroom, students cheating, and the no pass no play rule.

· With the help of sponsor Shellie Driscoll and editor Amy Overton, the newspaper was a success. Staff members competed in UIL writing competitions and summer workshops, learning to improve the paper's design and coverage. The staff sold wishes to students at Christmas and Valentines and published the wishes in the paper. The 85-86 Wildcat staff brought about significant changes and additions in the publication while being provided with ample opportunities in journalism training.

allied YOUTH

Makes Decisions

Allied Youth is an organization of sophomores, juniors and seniors with at least a seventy average who traveled to various middle schools. They taught seventh graders about chemical dependency, and educated children at an early age about the dangers of taking drugs.

The children were informed that along with marijuana, cocaine, and P.C.P., alcohol is also a drug, and can have drastic effects on their lives. They were reassured that they are not alone in their struggle with the decision of whether or not to take drugs.

Counselor Herb Baker, the leader of Allied Youth, said, "We had a great group this year, and I was pleased with the outcome."

Flag and Rifle CORPS

At Ease With Style

What would a football game be like without halftime performers? Led by Leslie Lucas and Mary Hourihan, this group added a highlight to halftime. Besides being a portion of the halftime performances, members of both corps performed during assemblies.

These eight girls practiced in the morning from 7:30 to 9:15, and before games as well. Colorful uniforms were worn to school on game days to show pride and unity for the school. Carrie Chapman went to North Texas State University during the summer. There she won ribbons on her performance, appearance, and attitude which helped the squad as a whole. The Flag and Rifle corps were directed by Richard Hayden.

Sweethearts March to a Winning Season

Executing a perfect performance consecutively at each varsity football game was nothing new for the Sweethearts. Getting to school early in the morning during the football season was tiring, but a worthwhile experience. Led by head captain Marie Hernandez, captains Elaine Williams, Stephanie McIntire, Renee Elton, Sara Cely and sponsor Gayla Collinsworth, this talented group of girls were a success. The drill team always finished their performance with the traditional heart composed of all the members chanting "Woodrow Wilson Wildcats fight!"

A Sweetheart was picked every week as Sweetheart of the Week. This honor was given to the girls who put out the most effort and were always trying to meet perfection. The Sweethearts of the Week were: Marilyn Brewer, Linda Carrasco, Laura Dean, Ronna Fraser, Penny Gamez, Katherine Holtzworth, Felicia Mena, Christine Munoz, and Claire Troy.

At the end of the year, the annual banquet was held. Here, the new captains were announced and the highest award in drill team, Most Outstanding Sweetheart was announced. This year's recipient was Marie Hernandez, chosen for her spirit and dedication.

FCA FAITH

Fellowship and Fun

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes was an organization providing fun and fellowship for athletes.

Under the leadership of sponsor Billy Clark, FCA met every Thursday at 7:30 a.m. in the school weight room. They discussed today's problems and how to gain spiritual strength in everyday life. Athletes from many sports came together and had the chance to know each other.

The members went to an FCA sponsored SMU football game, Dallas Mavericks basketball game, and the Cotton Bowl breakfast, where they met a professional coach and player.

Officers were Billy Hartmann, president; Don Young, vice president; Bill Taylor, secretary; and Andre Copling, treasurer.

Varsity CHEERLEADERS

Promote Wildcat Spirit!

Providing a spirited year for the student body was a task easily accomplished by the varsity cheerleaders. Their year started in August with The National Cheerleaders Association summer workshop. While attending the workshop, the squad learned new cheers, chants, stunts and pyramids. They received a spirit stick, four superior ribbons, and three excellent ribbons. The squad also performed at Texas Stadium during halftime at the All-Star North and South game.

During football season, pe assemblies were held befo school each week. Many lor hours went into plannin assemblies and painting sign Cheerleaders also attended oth sports events throughout the yea

J.V. SPIRIT
Cheerleaders Spring Into Action

Determination anhd hard work paid off for the junior varsity cheerleaders. Strenuous workouts during the summer and numerous practices throughout the year aided in perfecting the girls' skills.

Because of the no pass, no play rule, the junior varsity football team found itself without competitors, which resulted in the cancellation of their season. As a result, the cheerleaders performed at freshman functions. Nevertheless, they enjoyed themselves.

"We had a great year," said Stacy Brummett. "We learned to cooperate and work together, and just had a lot of fun."

The ROTC Marches Onward

ROTC introduced basic military principles to students. Cadets, under MSG. Don E. Bacon and 1SG. Bryan L. Dawson, were inspected, drilled on marching, and practiced shooting techniques. They wore their military uniforms every Tuesday and were responsible for presenting the flag at assemblies.

Cadets attended competitions throughout the year. For the sixth straight year, the rifle team won the area rifle competition. Drill team, standard drill and color guard won first place in the north zone competition. Inspection and free drill came in second place.

Concert CHOIR Sings To Perfection

The Woodrow Wilson Concert Choir kept continually busy with performances and contests.

The annual Dinner Theater, held in the fall, was successful, as well as the Christmas Program, to which the J.L. Long Middle School students were invited as special guests. This program featured songs from stage, screen, radio, and television, and kept everyone entertained throughout.

The four main contests consisted of the DISD Solo and Ensemble, February 1; the UIL contest, February 8; the DISD Choir Concert, March 25; and the UIL Choir Contest, held April 11. As usual, each contest produced success.

The famous musical L'il Abne was put on by the fine arts depart ment, with most of the members o the choir participating in th chorus. Practice for the musica began in early February and th performances were held on Apr 25th and 26th.

The officers were Elaine Williams, president; Emily Goldman, vice-president; and Tonia Gustus, librarian. Clas representatives were Sara Cely seniors; Erik Hansen, juniors; Ra Bodine, sophomores; and Kevi Corgan, freshmen.

"It's been a very full and bus year, but quite rewarding," said director Marca Lee Bircher.

Variations

SHINE

Through song and dance

Success has become a standard for the Variations and this year proved to be no exception. The fantastic reputation of these hard working, talented students grew as they performed at a variety of places. They performed everywhere from hotels and nursing homes, to banks and shopping malls. Christmas was once again a busy season with performances two and three times a day.

The Variations, compiled of 22 members, won outstanding ratings at the DISD solo and ensemble contest. With the direction of Marca Lee Bircher and the choreography of Patricia Hardman and former Woodrow student Tancy Taylor the Variations brought much recognition to Woodrow Wilson.

The FTA Prepares for the Future

Future Teachers of America introduced students to the techniques of teaching and the role of education in our society. They attended a leadership workshop in Plano and a district convention in Allen. Three members acted as recorders and hostess' for workshops. Preparation for the state convention was held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel. They entered and won third place in the Name Tag Contest at the District Convention.

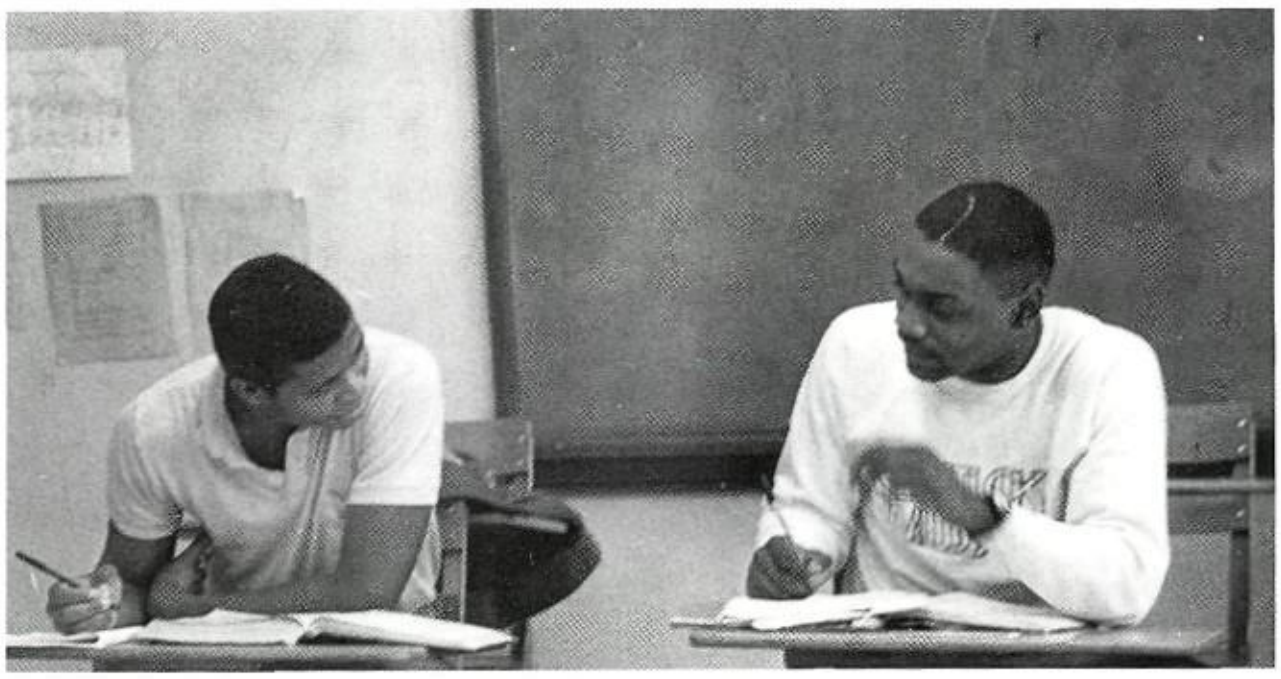

Preparing "Welcome Bags" for new teachers at Woodrow was just one helpful thing the FTA club worked on. They sent holiday wishes, along with a candy cane to each teacher and staff member prior to winter break.

The OEA Works to Achieve

The Office Education association had a productive year under sponsors Geriselda Balboa and Ruth Struble. OEA was created to train and prepare students to work in offices.

An area contest was held in February and included different areas of typing, accounting, record management, general clerical and job interviews. Several students attended this contest: Rosie Bibanco, Marilyn Brewer, Maria L. Lopez, Leticia Ramos, Valerie Grzywinski, Alma Lopez, Marisela Orona, Maribel Parra, Debra Miles, and Herlinda Aquirre.

OEA sponsored a test tasting survey to raise money for the Senior Luncheon, and other senior activity dues. In May, OEA held an employer-employee luncheon called "Bring Your Boss to Work."

The Senior officers were Rosie Bibanco, president, Marilyn Brewer, vice president, Sonia Ramirez, secretary. The Junior officers were Wendel Walton, president, Teresita De La O, vice president, and Herlinda Aqquirre, secretary.

JOBS
Students Stay Active at Work

Coordinated Vocational Academic Education gave students the chance to prepare for life after graduation. They learned responsibility and vocational skills. Participants in the program took four hours of academic classes and then reported to their jobs. Most students were members of the program's club, VOCT, which helped them with leadership and citizenship. Officers were Jackie Johnson, president, Ernesto Hernandez, vice president, Erika Cushingberry, secretary, Christine Burrell, reporter, Latonya Dotie, treasurer, Karen Chappel, parliamentarian, and Rithy Svay, Sergeant at arms.

HERO

The Business World

The Home Economics Related Occupations students worked at such places as East Grand Daycare, Revco Drugs and the Sheraton Hotel. The sponsor Mrs. Nauman helped out during the year in encouraging the students to aid the community. There seemed to be more involvement this year than in the past. The main purpose of HERO is to give these students a look into the varied aspects of business.

DECA

Builds Better Work Skills

Travel, competition and adventure were just a few aspects of the Distributive Education Club of America this year. Students trained for jobs in marketing, merchandising, management and service selling. Class work included development of skills needed to be successful in such jobs. Along with daily living skills, students studied the free enterprise system, marketing and distribution of goods and services. Other areas covered business mathematics, human relations in business and advertising and display techniques.

Valentine's Day Dance

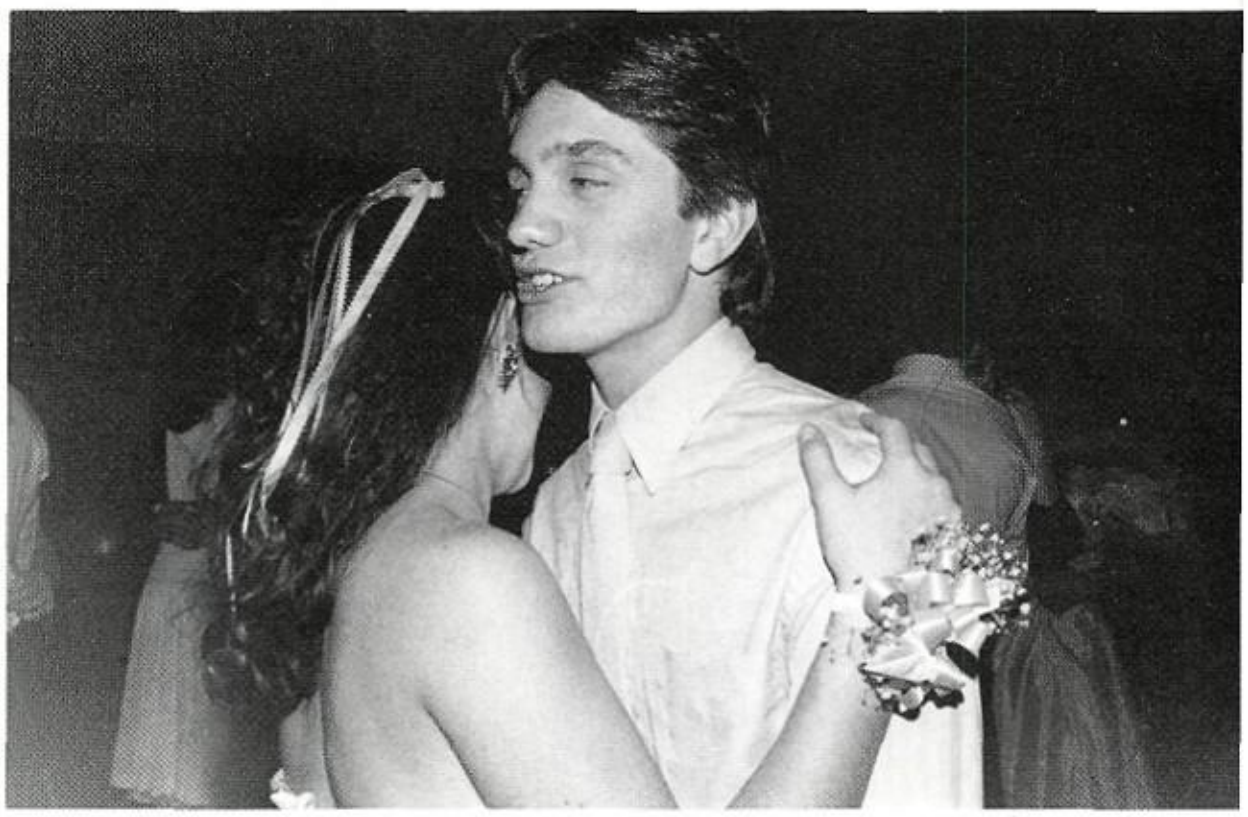

Getting Together!

Each year the Sweethearts throw a Valentine's Day dance. The tradition is girl ask guy. It was held at Winfrey Point from 8:00 to 11:30. Everyone who came had the time of their lives. People bounced around to the upbeat numbers and held each other close during th slow songs. The dance was wonderful evening created by th energy and enthusiasm of th Woodrow Sweethearts and spo sor, Gayla Collinsworth.

Library COUNCIL Keeps Busy

The Library Council helped with library activities by checking books in and out, writing overdue notices, writing fine slips, keeping the room neat, keeping shelves, shelving books and making copies. Sponsors were Bradley Sue Howell and Johnetta Williams.

The Library Council co-sponsored new book exhibits in December. The Texas Secretary of State gave a presentation January 15. On February 20, author/illustrator, Charles Bible spoke and demonstrated his artistic abilities on two students.

Red CROSS Helps Others

Sponsored by Mrs. Bradley Sue Howell, the seventeen membered Red Cross organization spent its year working on community projects, and hand made small gifts for the underprivileged, such as Halloween "ghost suckers" for the Juliet Fowler Home. In the spring, they made Easter baskets for the Headstart program. They held a fall campaign, in order to raise money for friendship boxes, Ethiopian hunger relief and the Statue of Liberty.

Margaret Guidroz represented Woodrow at a Red Cross Summer Leadership Seminar at North Texas State University.

Officers were: President, Margery Arnold; Vice President, Margaret Guidrox; Secretary, Layla I. Salim; Historian, Tsega Habtemarian.

Le FRENCH

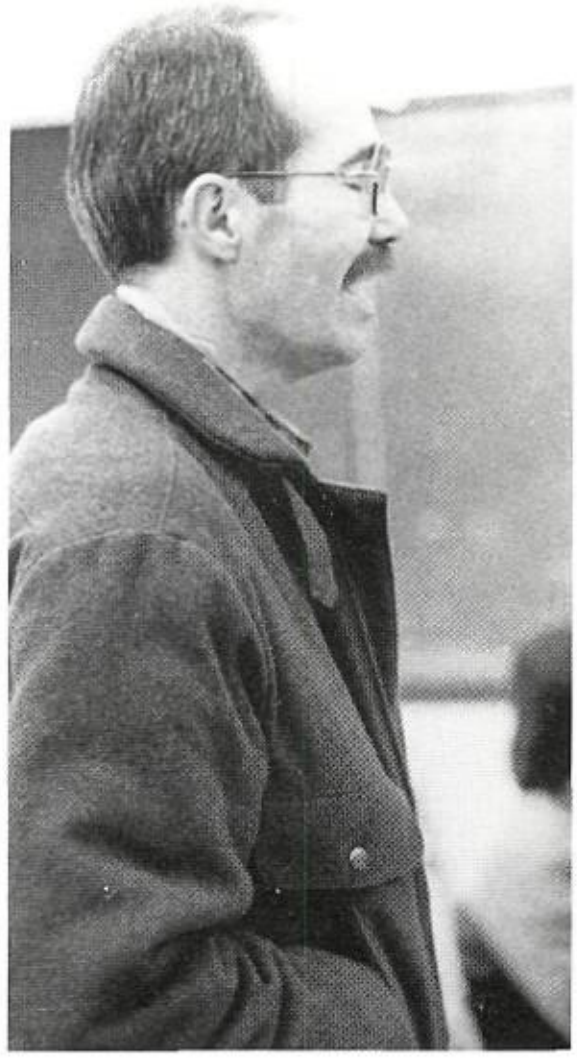

Club Excels

The French Club had another year filled with activities. Members celebrated their first annual Mardi Gras with tremendous enthusiasm. Festive masks were designed with all kinds of materials: paper maché, styrofoam, glitter, crepe paper, pipe cleaners, and anything else imaginable. They also created effigies, or faces of an authoritative person that they mocked. A dance contest was held, and the festivities ended with a party at Mr. Holoman's house.

The annual Christmas party was held at Gail Drury's house, with lots of food and fun.

Before school was out, the French Club held a grande boum, or a giant party, to celebrate the end of the year.

Officers for the club were Steve Fosmire, president; Laura Dean, vice-president; and Gail Drury, secretary and treasurer.

The PASF

Spanish Club helps others

The Spanish Club, otherwise known as the Pan American Student Forum, once again enjoyed an activity filled year.

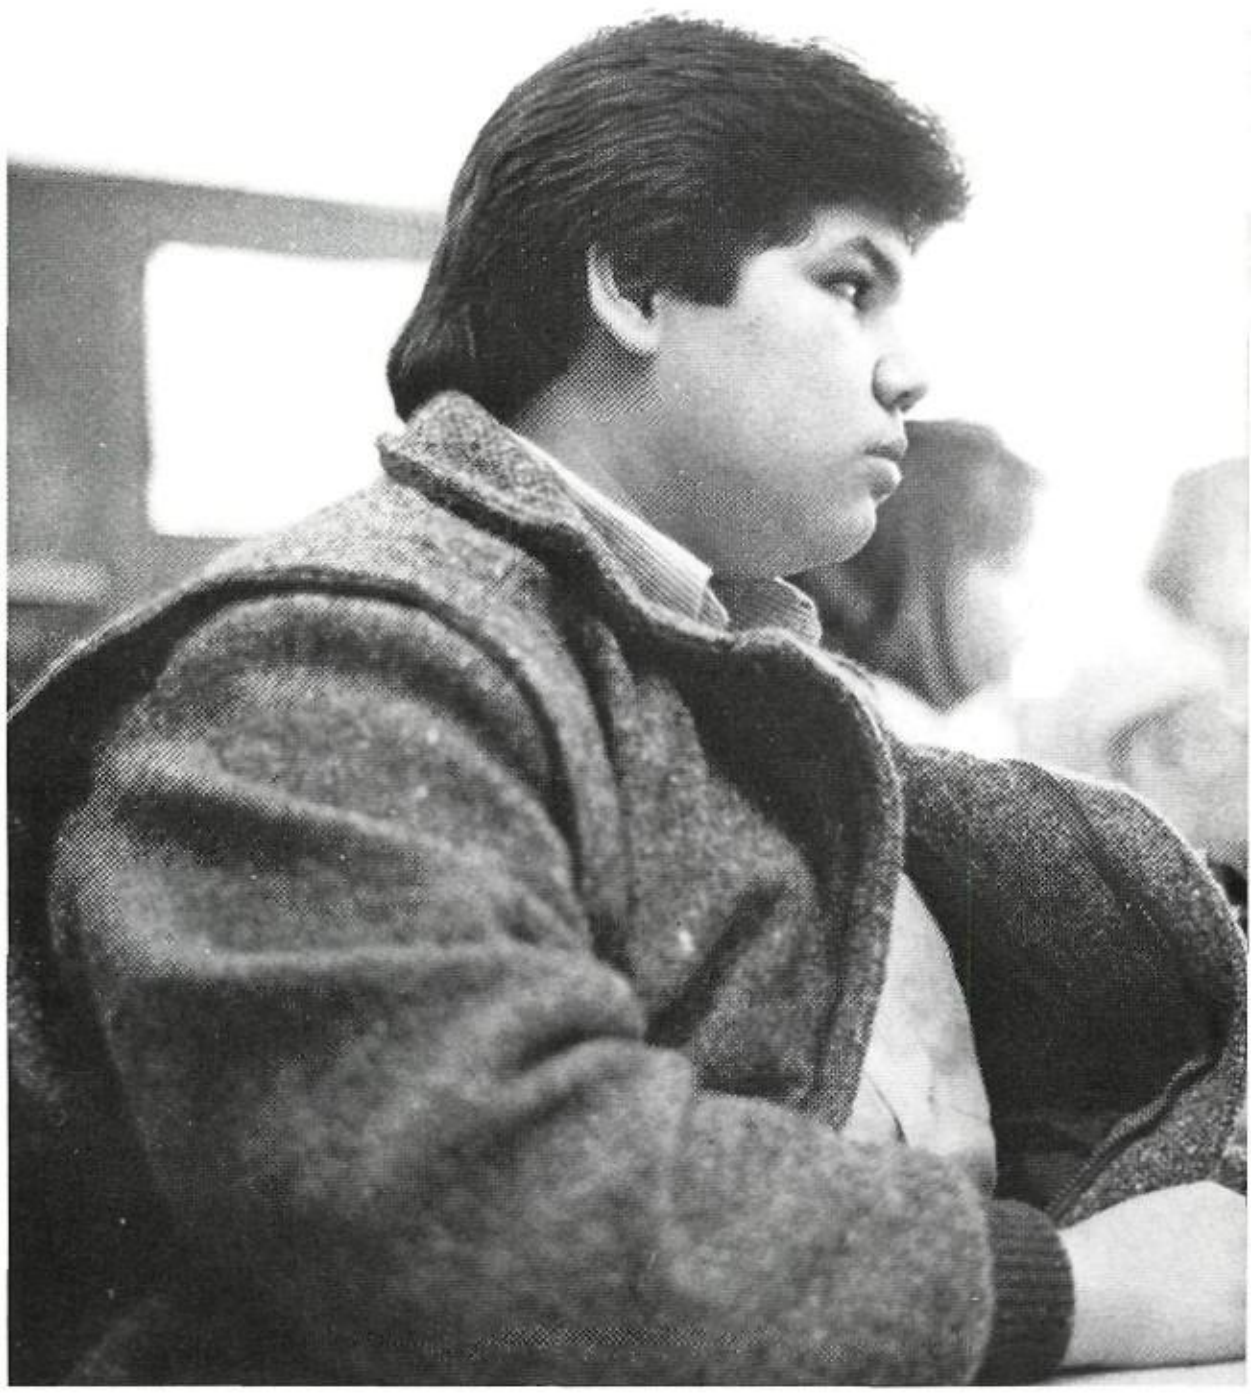

The club held its first meeting in September, when over fifty students joined. Members sold a variety of candy bars to help pay for projects and expenses.

A Christmas party for underprivileged children at the Anita Martinez Recreation Center was "really fun and successful," said Hiram Olivo, club president. Members of the club baked refreshments, helped children play games, and provided a pinata for their guests.

After earning points for participating in activities, 16 members of the group attended the state convention in San Antonio during March. They spent a weekend electing state officers and attending a workshop.

In addition to community service, club members also organized social events, including dinners at local Mexican restaurants.

Officers for the year included Hiram Olivo, president; Marie Hernandez, vice president; Brian Allen, secretary; Chris Quillin, treasurer, and Shari Lerner, historian.

Student COUNCIL

Sponsors Homecoming Week Helps Needy at Christmas

Sponsored by Mrs. Ruth Struble, the Student Council was once again successful. To be a member of the Student Council, students were elected by their peers and had to maintain a 2.0 grade point average throughout the year. They sponsored the Homecoming Dance entitled "Magic Moments." The Student Council was also responsible for the orientation for the future freshmen and for all elections held throughout the year.

Officers were: President Elaine Williams, Vice-President Tom Griggs and Secretary Janci Lowry. In charge of the social committee was Tracy Hagemann, and the election committee was Alfredo Loredo.

Senior Student Council member Marilyn Brewer tries to decide what committee she wants to be on.

Excels NHS in Academic Pursuits

National Honor Society excels in academic pursuits. On February 26, 1986, seven seniors and twenty-five juniors who were academically superior students were pinned for National Honor Society. Second year NHS members pinned new inductees during third period. Selection into the group is a nationally recognized honor. To be selected, students must maintain a high grade point average and be approved by Woodrow's faculty.

Their annual banquet was held near the end of the year. The sponsor was Arlene Finger, and the officers were: President, Margery Arnold; Vice-President, Hiram Olivo; Secretary, Connie Dozier.

Renee Elton pins new National Honor Society member, David Lambert.

Academics

INVOLVED

Mr. Pierce gives Travis Moss a pat on the b after the victory.

PLANNING

Mr. Pierce schedules teacher evaluations.

LOYAL

Wayne Pierce Leads School

For over 20 years, Principal Wayne Pierce has served the school, easing the educational process for both teachers and students.

Never one to stay in his office behind a closed door, he could be seen in the halls and classrooms, observing daily activities. Many students were the recipients of his words of encouragement. He also maintained close ties with the Lakewood community, spending many hours attending meetings and working with parent groups.

An avid sports fan, he attended numerous games and every pep assembly. He shared disappointing defeats and uplifting victories. His support of student activities, whether on the athletic field, the stage or in the classrooms, never wavered.

Perhaps Mr. Pierce endeared himself most to students through his morning announcements. Each time, he offered a thought for the day. Some were serious, some were amusing, but they all expressed his sincere interest in helping students.

EDUCATION

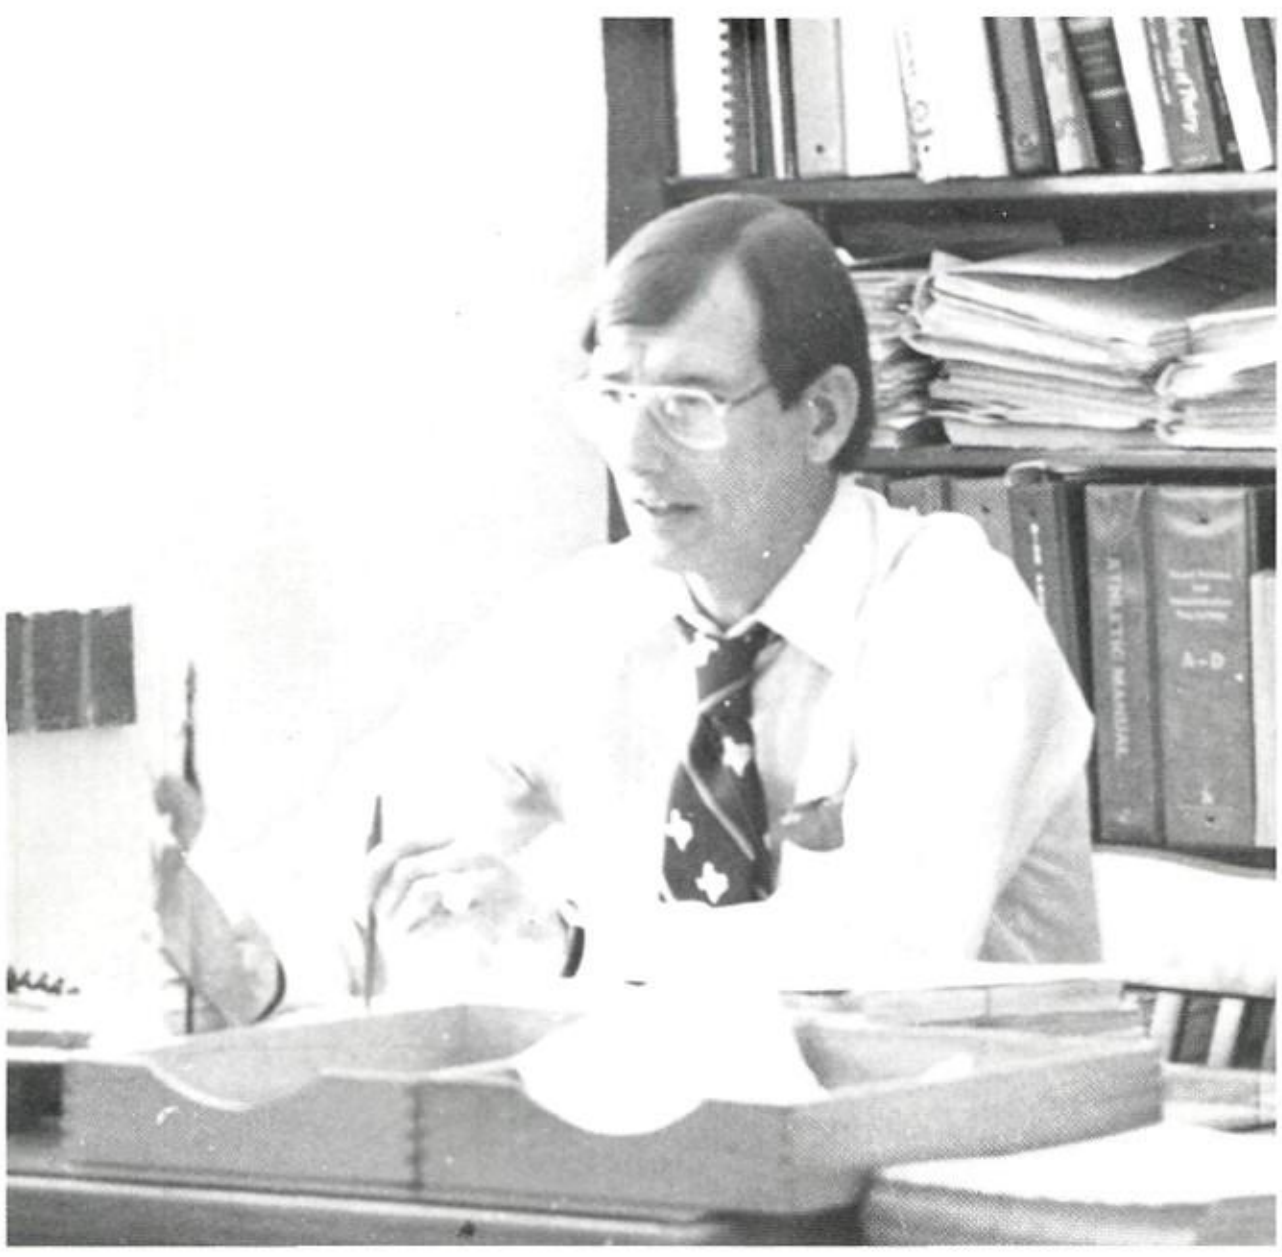

Dr. Murillo looks over lesson plans to assist teachers.

DISCIPLINE

Mr. Haden discusses with a student the rules of the school.

Working Together

Mr. Haden and Dr. Murillo are bringing Woodrow Wilson to new heights.

Two assistant principals, Joel Haden and Dr. Armando Murrillo, served the school throughout the year.

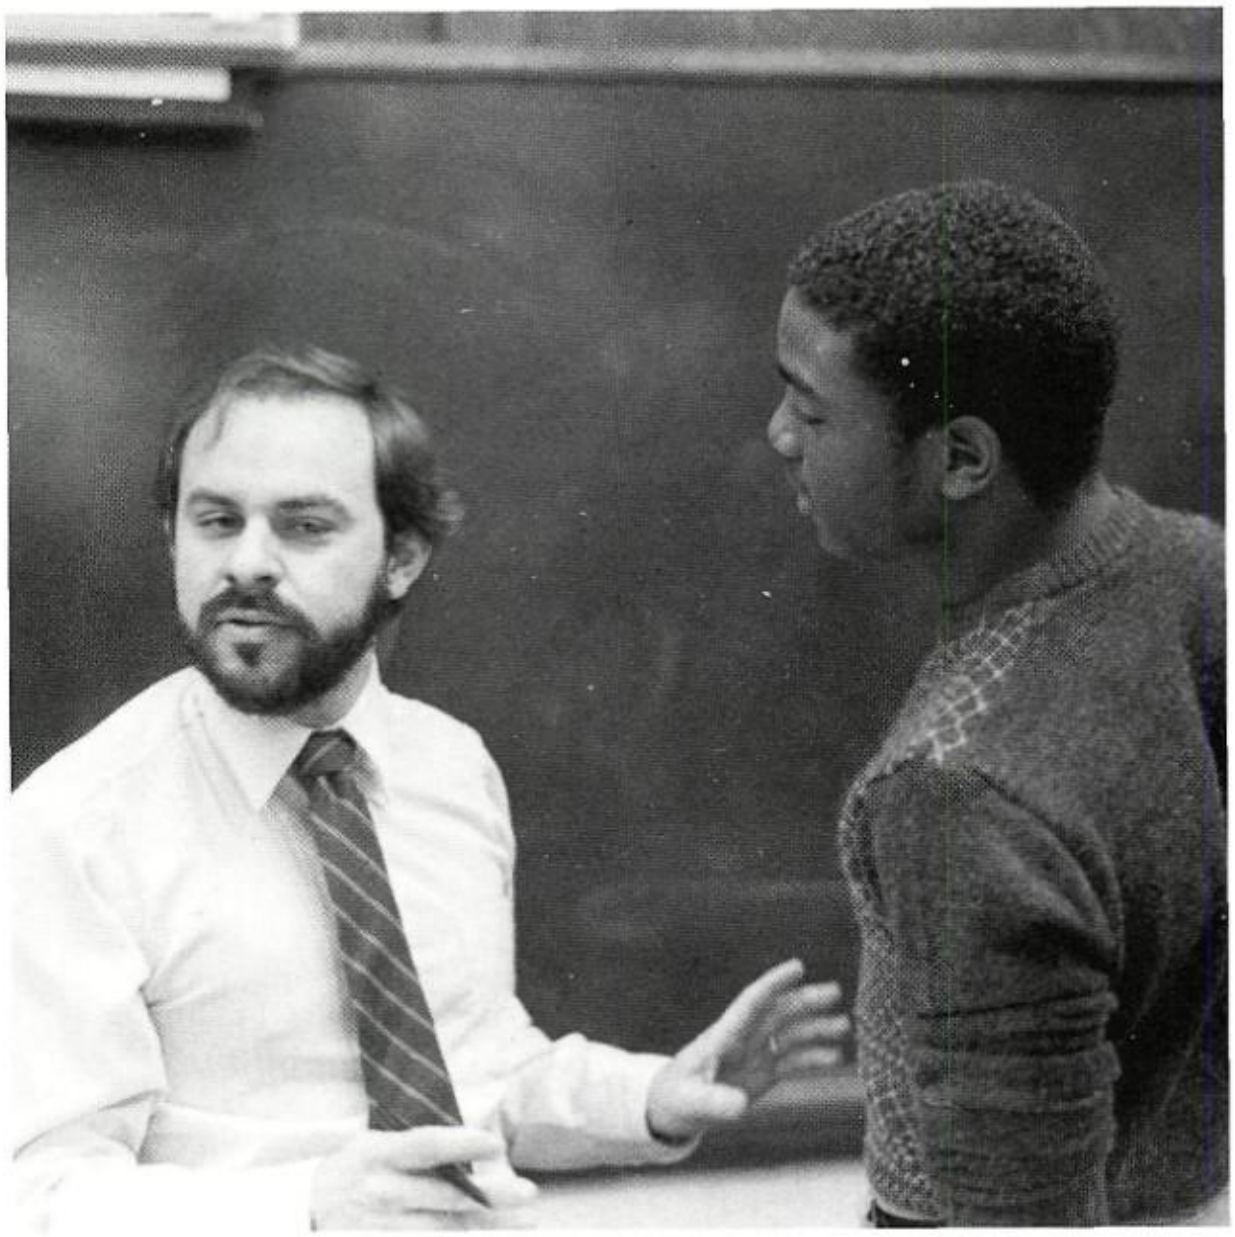

Mr. Haden's main responsibilities involved discipline, tardies, and those who went to Jack-in-the-Box for lunch. He also oversaw the clinic and attendance office.

Dr. Murillo, the dean of instruction, observed teachers during class to make sure the six steps of teaching were applied — finding, telling, demonstrating, guided practice, applying knowledge, and evaluating.

ENGLISH

Reading Opens New Worlds For Students

From the SCARLET LETTER, to ROMEO AND JULIET, to BEOWULF, students in English studied all forms of modern and ancient literature. All English classes emphasized grammar and writing skills, while also helping students improve their conversational English. They also worked closely with the library to coordinate outside reading materials and research activities.

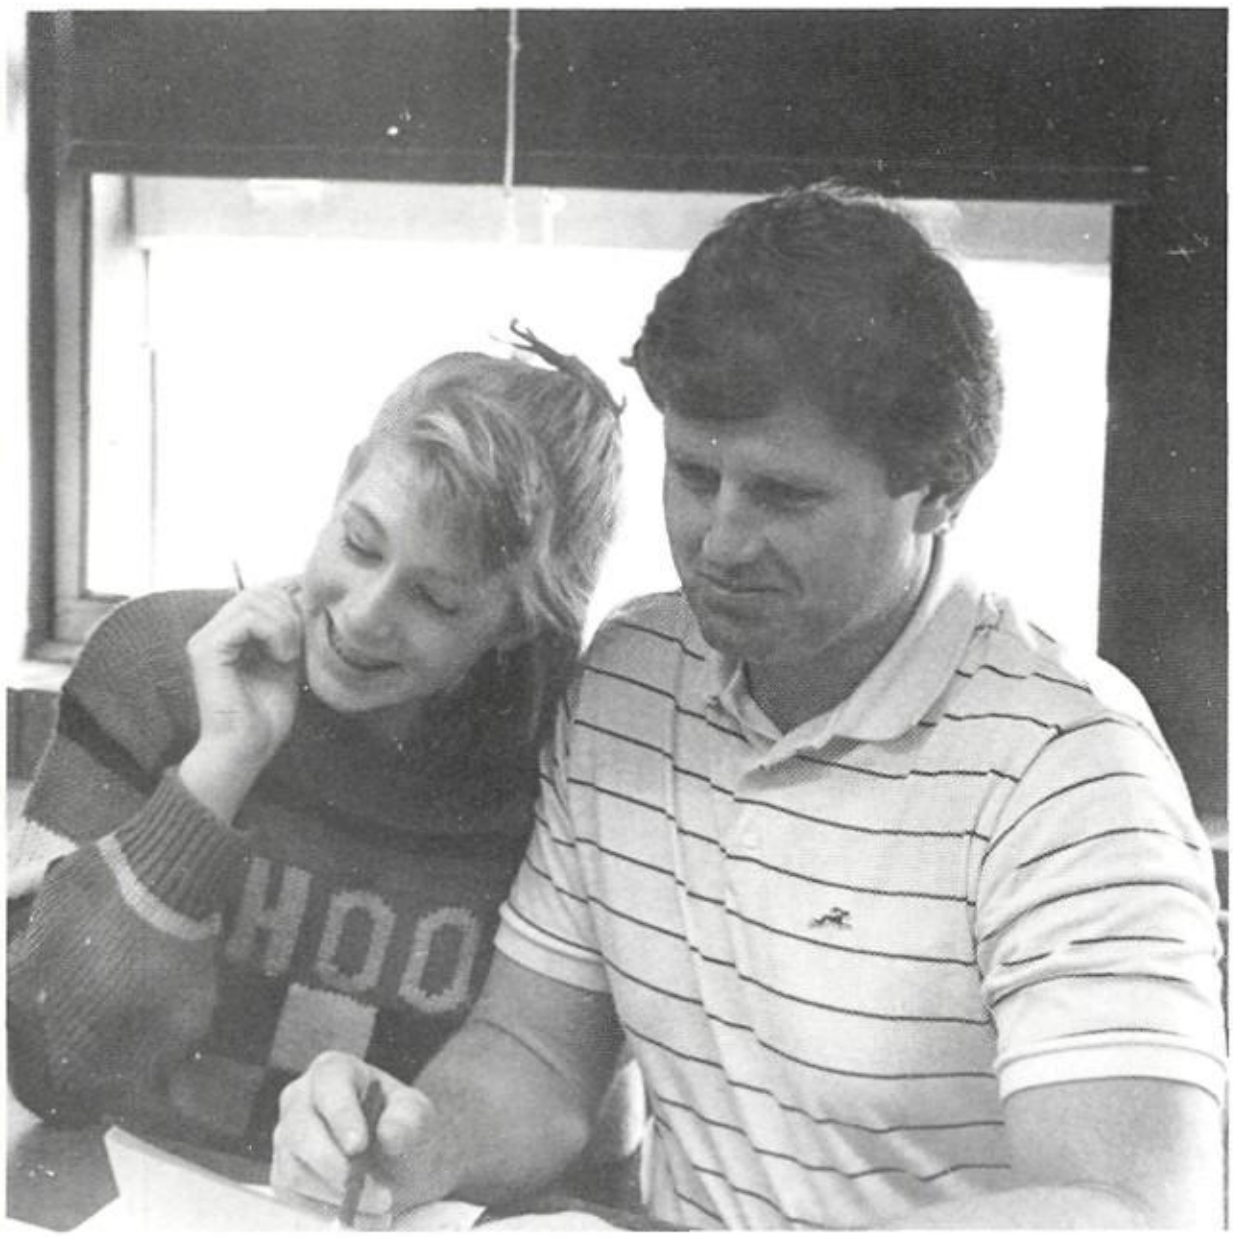

STUDIOUS

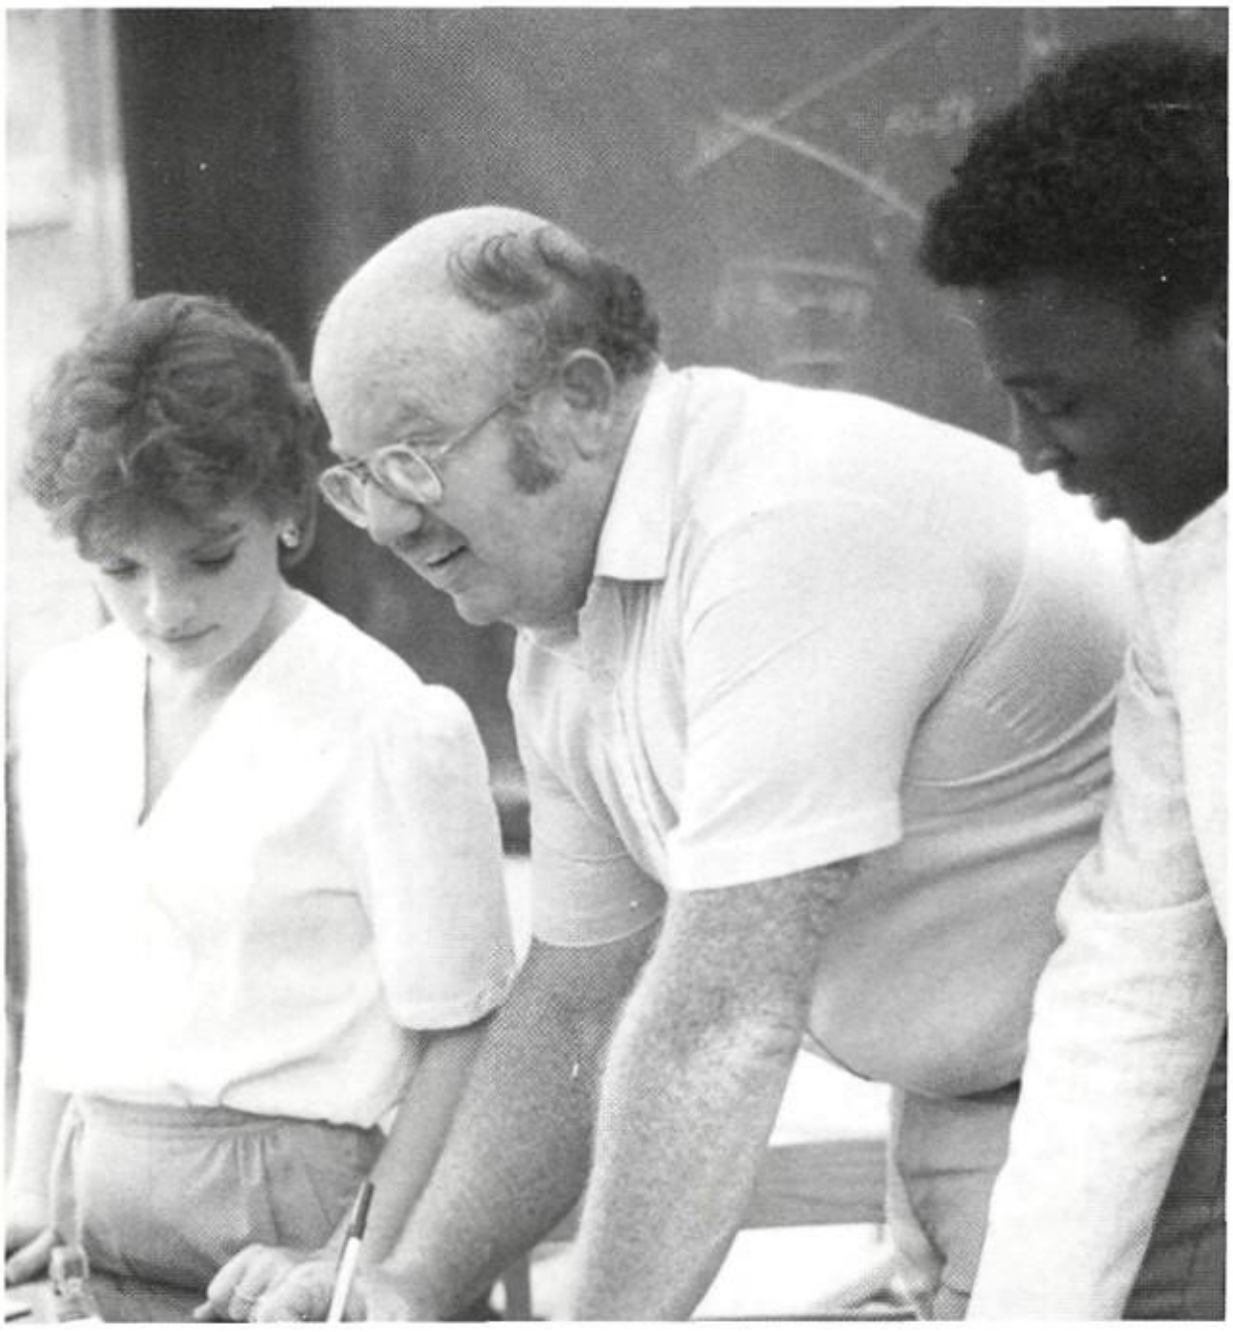

Mr. Paris helps a student during his English class.

ADMIRATION

Mrs. Martinez praises her English as a Second Language class because of their excellent performances on a test.

MATH

Adding Skills for Life

Math is used in everything from technical careers to figuring change at a grocery store.

Math courses ranged from Fundamentals of Math I and II, Algebra I and II, Geometry, Trigonometry, to Calculus and Elementary Analysis.

As teacher Sid Cates said, "Math is an integral part of everyday living and the students here seem to excell in the field."

INSTRUCTION

Mr. Cates instructs Amy Anderson during class.

HELPFULNESS

Laura Buckner asks Mr. Mattingly for help.

BUSINESS
Working Hard

The business department offered courses in accounting and typing.

In accounting, students learned to manage bank books and checking accounts, and figure income taxes.

In typing, students learned to center vertically and horizontally. They also learned all the keys of the typewriter and different guidelines for typing.

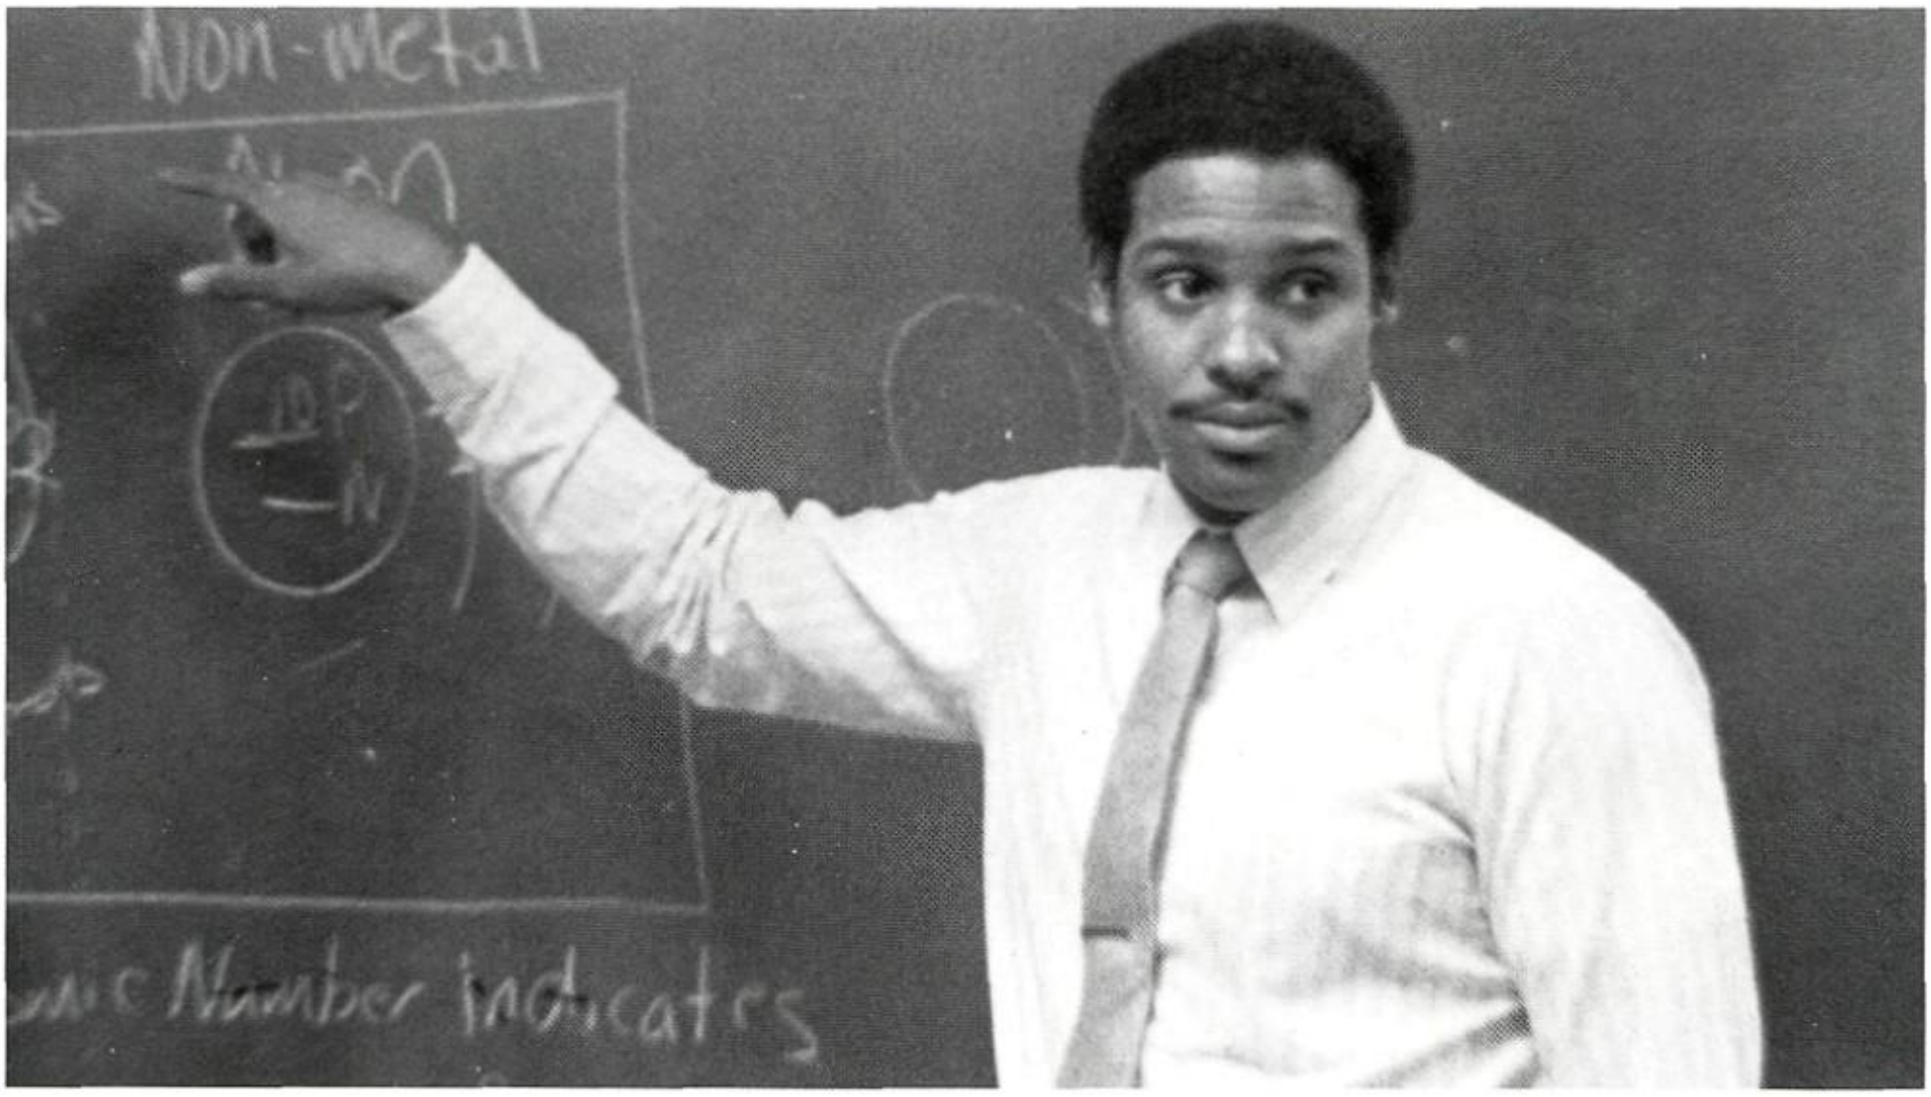

CORRECTING

Elia Jasso corrects her typing assignment on vertical centering.

WONDERING

Lucy Murillo watches Maria Lopez help Adelaida Carrasoco find errors in her typing paper.

SCIENCE

Teaches Life Skills

In science classes, students had a wide variety of experiences. Physical Science covered the metric system, the periodic chart, the atom and chemical elements. In biology, students learned about different forms of life and performed numerous experiments and dissections. Chemistry also offered the chance for experiments and study of the periodic table. Those in physics classes learned about uniform motion, the heat exchange and the relationships between force and motion.

LEARNING

Joan Davis reviews the periodic table.

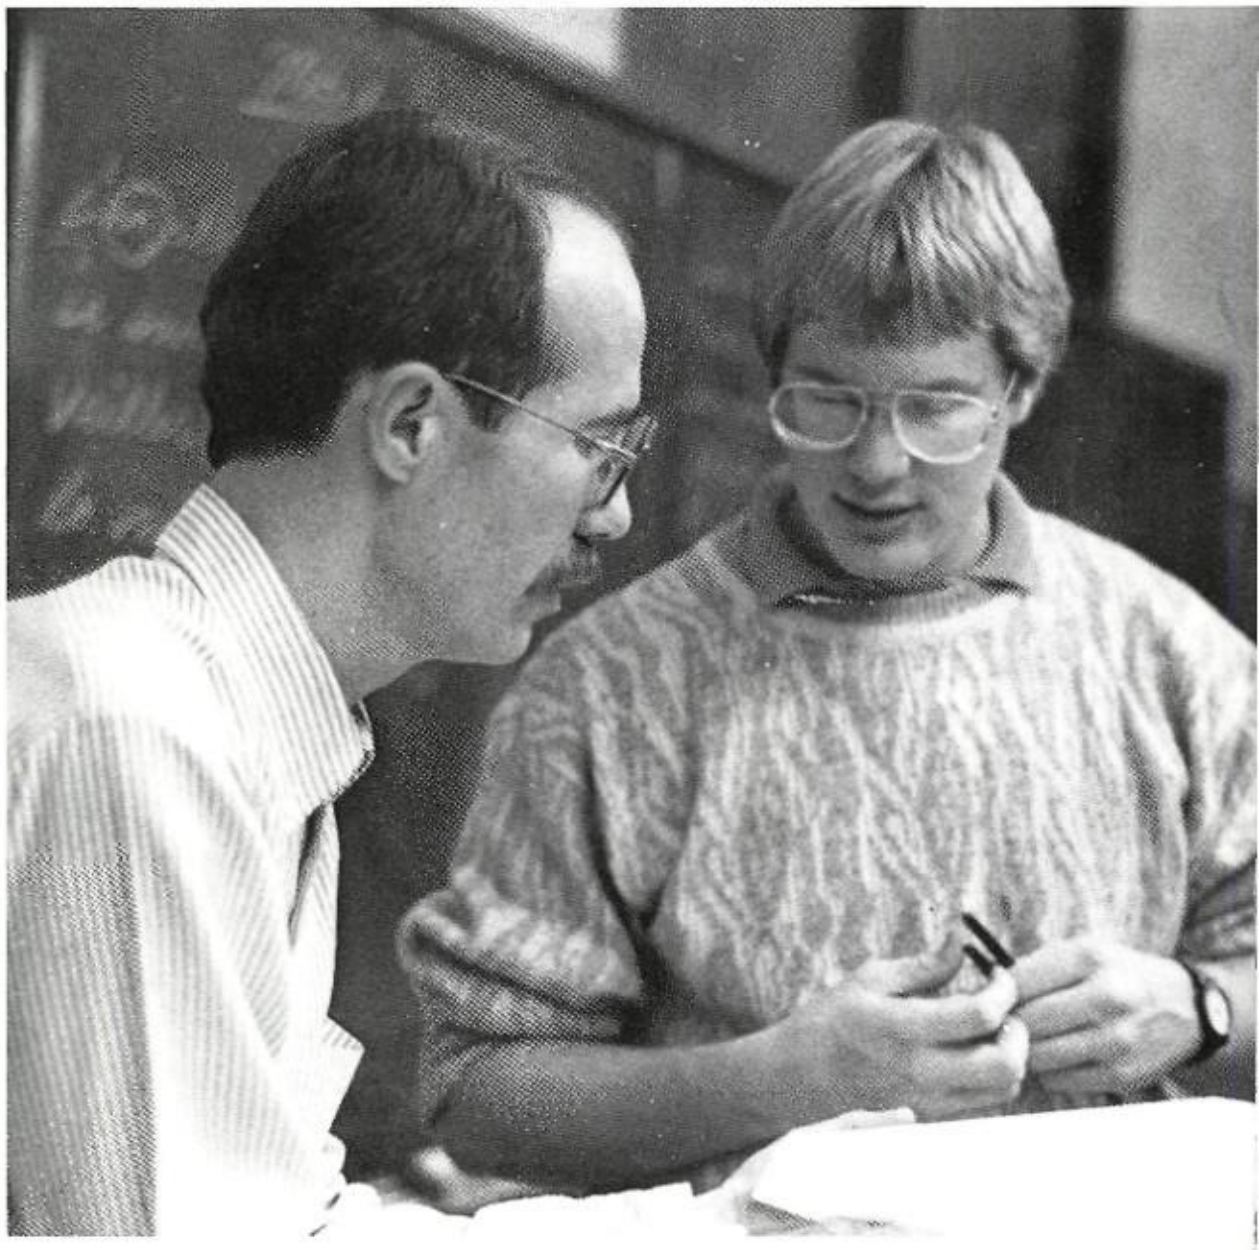

DEMONSTRATION

Billy Clark explains protons to his class.

Languages have taught us about many Different Worlds

Learning languages such as Spanish, French, and Latin was difficult, but having teachers like Ms. Parrett, Mrs. Stratton, and Mr. Holamon made it easier.

Foreign language classes studied the culture of different countries as well as the spoken word. Students left with a better understanding of the foreign countries and their languages.

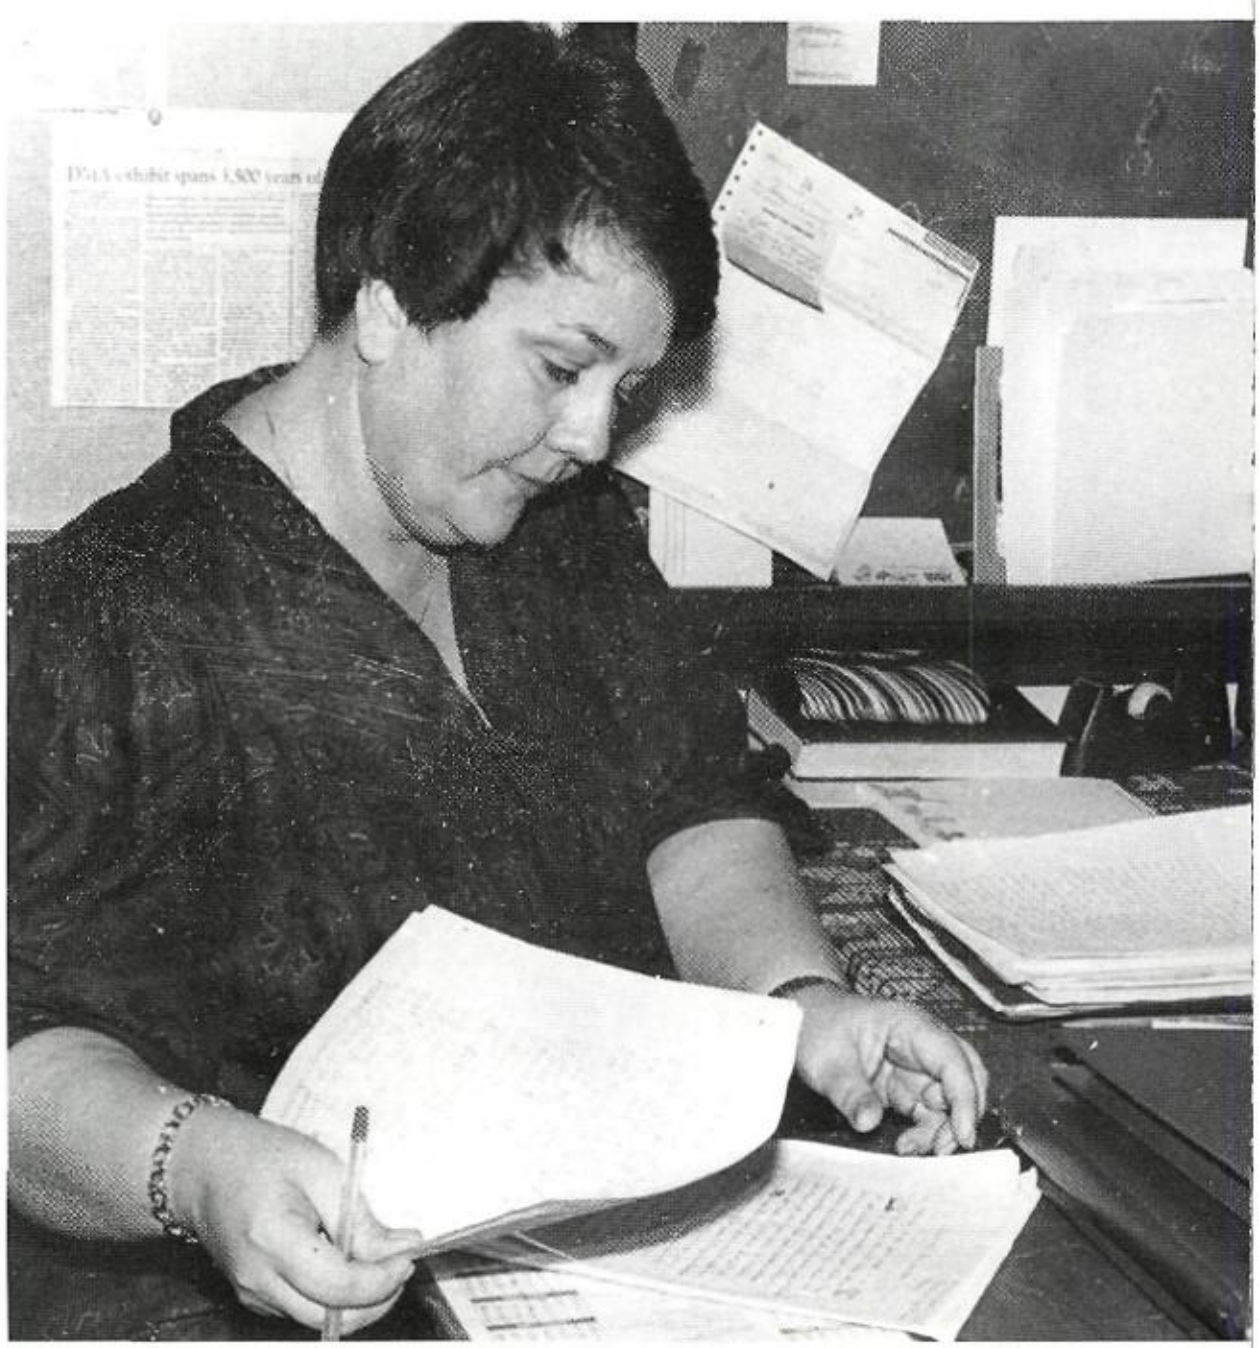

EDUCATION

Mr. Holamon helps Steve Fosmire with his French work.

INSTRUCTION

Ms. Parrett checks over a Christmas story translation by her first year Spanish class.

INSTRUCTS

Mrs. Mays assigns her class daily work.

SOCIAL STUDIES Explores

Through social studies classes, students learned about people and events which took place both before they were born and during their lifetimes.

World history classes studied the beginnings of civilization and major events throughout the world, while American history classes developed an understanding of the people and events which shaped the United States. In addition, government courses trained students to understand and participate in the governing process.

EVALUATING

Mrs. Arnold grades History homework.

AVERAGING

Mrs. Gardner happily averages grades for the six weeks.

HOMEMAKING

Learning New Skills

A variety of skills formed the core of homemaking courses. Students who took the foods course learned nutrition principles and how to plan, prepare and serve a variety of menus.

In clothing they learned to mend and choose their own garments. Mrs. Cox and Ms. Saenz also taught home management and skills such as budgeting expenses, financing a home, child development and parenting and family relationships. The two teachers also helped students apply their skills at home and monitored home experience projects outside of school.

DILIGENCE

Margarita Martinez makes a dress while learning to sew in Homemaking.

SHOWING

Evelyn Saucedo models her egg baby, a project in Homemaking.

ART

Skills in Design

In art and woodshop classes, students learned to use their skills in design.

In art, students worked on the elements and principles of design which included, color, shape, line space, value, and texture. The students also learned the techniques of drawing including smooth shading. Some of the work the students completed go into a contest. This year, ten pieces of work went into contest.

Students learned to work with their hands in woodshop, learning to work with wood and machines. The students made several projects on their own, and they also repaired and made furniture.

ARTISTIC

LEARNING

Julie Toombs corrects a mistake on her picture.

TEACHING

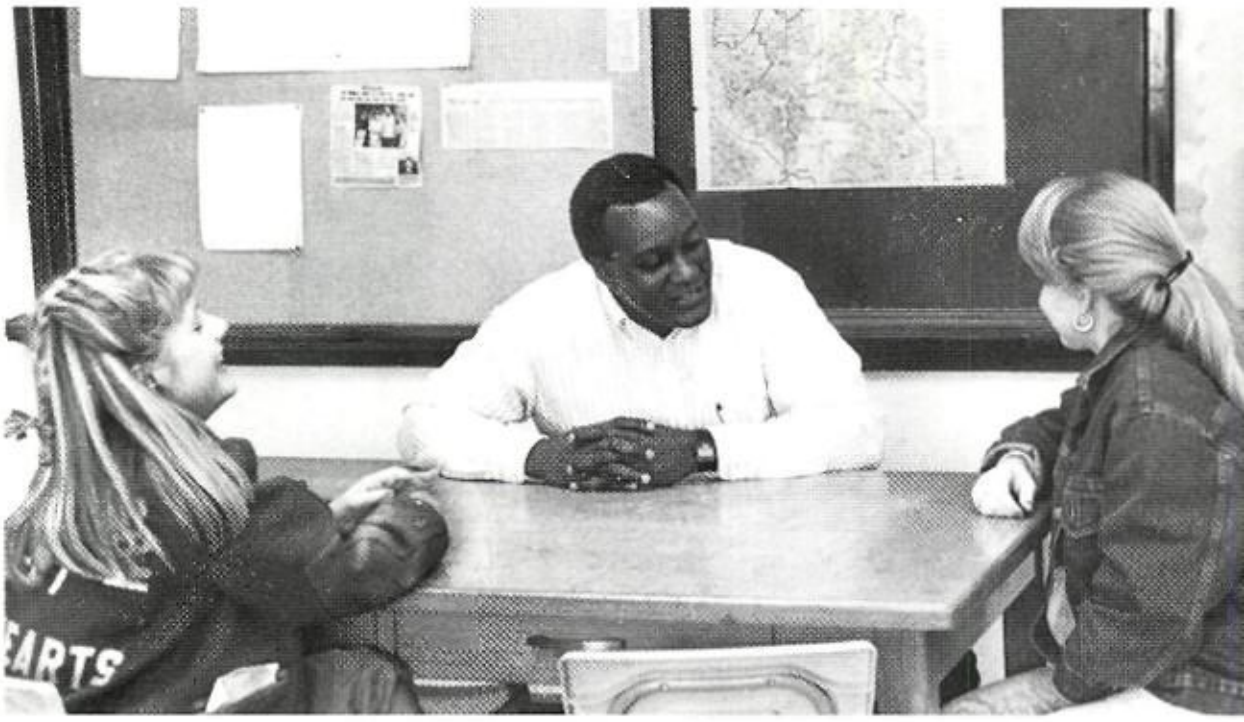

Mr. Chapa helps students plan their pastel portraits.

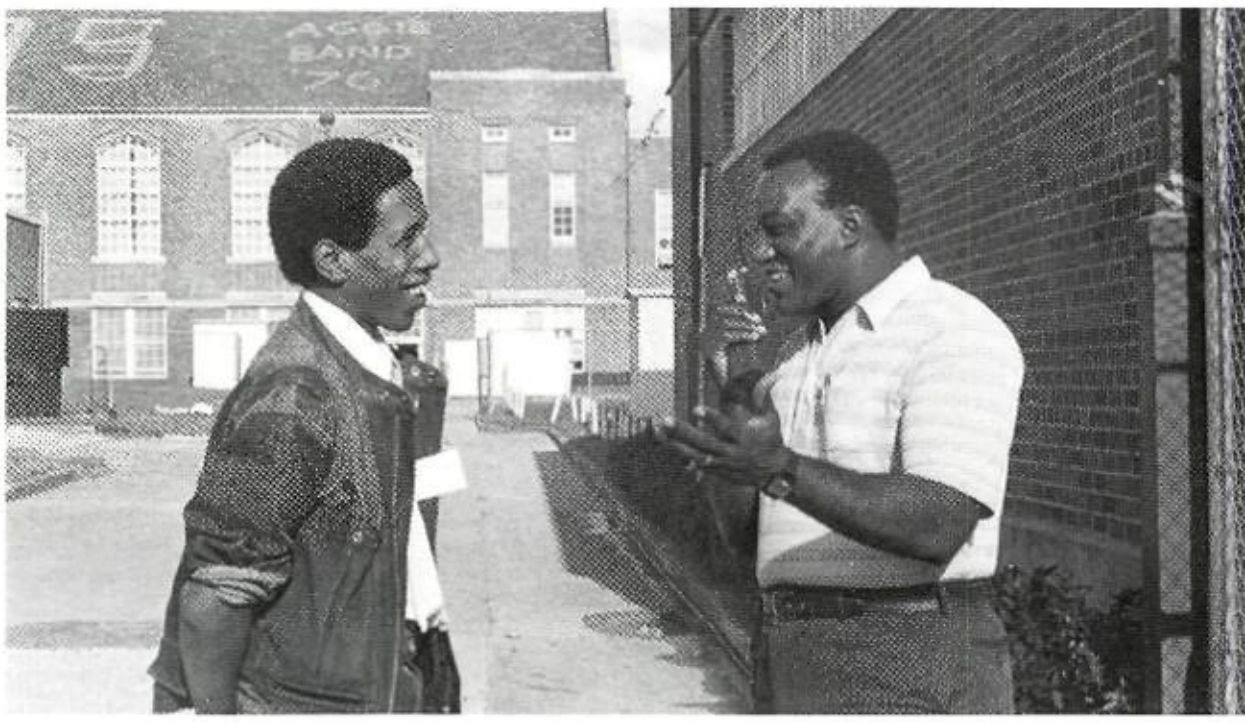

DEDICATED

Billy Barnes, John Nobles Help Keep Law, Order

Although Billy Barnes and John Nobles often saw the negative side of school life, they kept their senses of humor, making them popular with both students and faculty.

Mr. Barnes and Mr. Nobles handled disciplining problems in the Youth Action Center. They worked with students having personal problems, as well as those involved in trouble in and out of school. In addition to helping Woodrow students, they worked with Lakewood Elementary; and J. L. Long Middle School.

EXPLAINING

Mr. Nobles explains to Felicia Mena and Robin White the purpose of Youth Action.

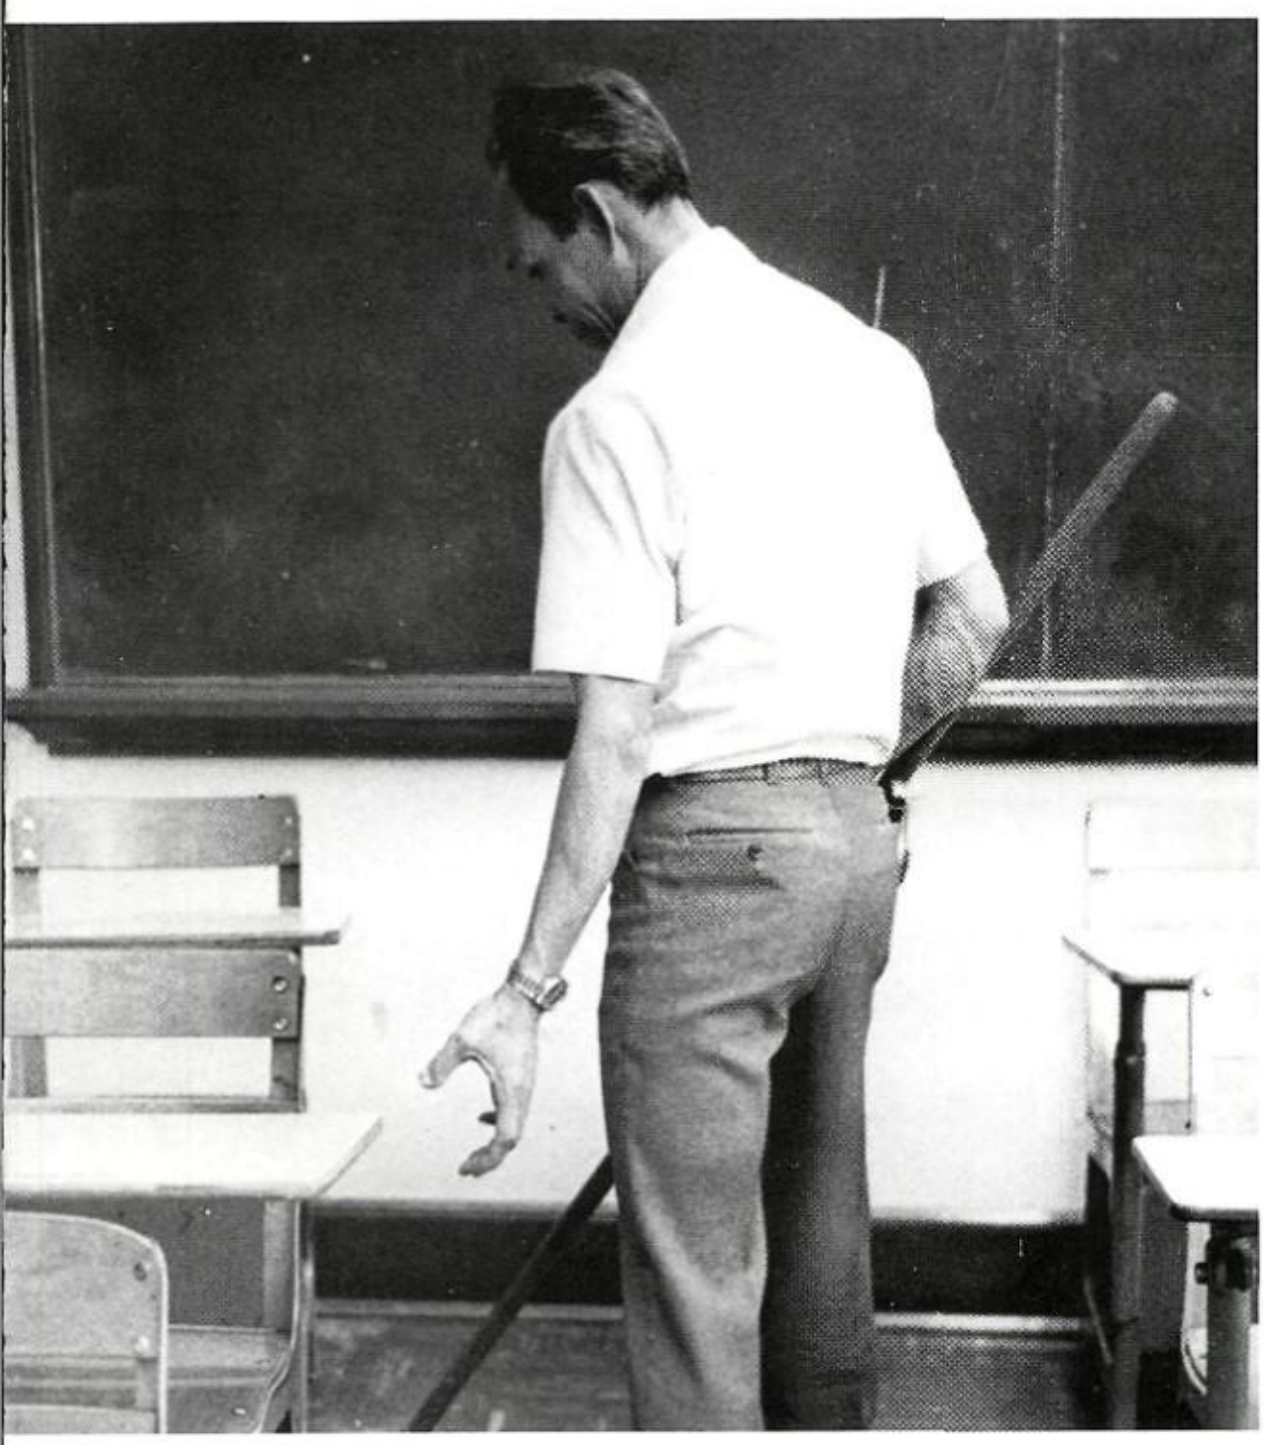

CONFESSING

Mr. Nobles tells Roosevelt Moody that telling the truth will put him in the clear.

RELAXING

Mr. Barnes makes a check for the da activities.

School is kept clean

Cafeteria/Janitors

While walking through the halls, one was sure to see a custodian keeping the school clean.

The custodial staff spent many hours cleaning the hallways, classrooms, and the grounds surrounding the building. During the summer, they kept the school in good condition and made necessary repairs, under the leadership of Building Engineer Ernest Davis.

The Cafeteria workers cooked breakfast and lunch for hundreds of students each day. With the guidance of Dietician Lavora Davis, they worked to provide nutritious meals and still satisfy students' appetites.

TOP STUDENTS
Outstanding Students Strut Their Brains

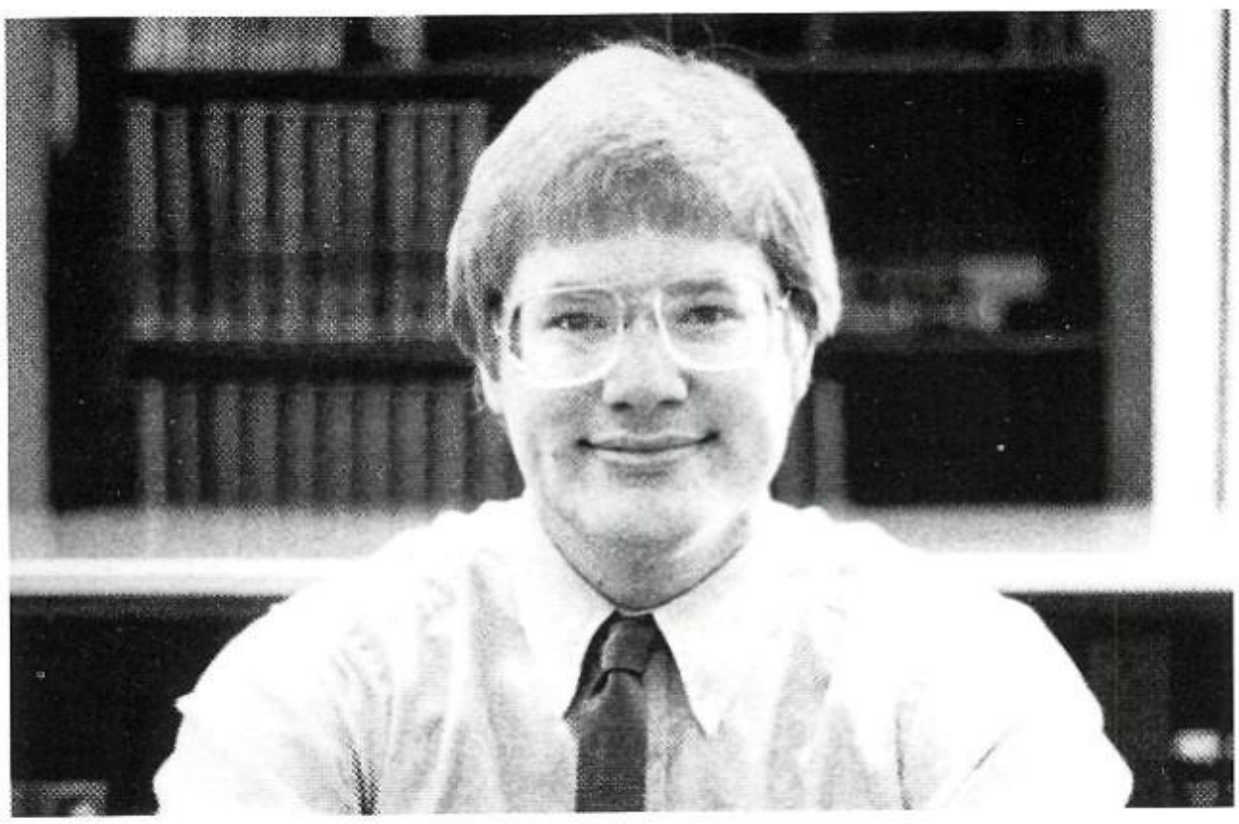

Every year, each department chooses one outstanding student to be recognized by the Crusader. These seniors are considered the best in their areas for their high achievements. The honor is based on scholarship, dedication, leadership and outstanding ability. Students who received the honor also received special recognition at the spring awards assembly.

Woodrow, you're the best. Thanks for four years of wonderful memories, and to the senior class of '86, here's a toast: "You're the greatest!" Thanks Mom and Dad for your support!

U.T. Here She Comes!!

We are proud of you Kelly
Lots and Lots of Love,
Mom, Mikey, and Kenneth

Moi, A senior woman?

"Character and ideals are catching. When you associate with women who aspire to the highest and best, you expose yourself to the qualities that make women great!!!"

Kelly Joyce, you and each of your friends will be missed terribly next year. Whew! It has been a challenge and a pleasure — growing-up with such beautiful young women. We are almost finished . . .

"Whatever you can do, or dream you can, begin it. Boldness has genius, power, and magic in it." Begin it now!!

I Love You, Darla/Mom

Throughout the years. . .

We've learned many responsibilities, but none as important as being a friend.

FINALE

WILDCAT FAN
A future Wildcat shows his spirit.

Forever Red

Your high school experiences have built in you special memories that you will cherish for the rest of your life. These memories will carry you through happy and sad times. Somehow twenty years later, you will pull the 1985-86 Crusader off the shelf, flip through the pages, and think back on all those special moments which will be Forever Read.

BREAK THROUGH
The energetic Wildcat football team is anticipating the game.

LEADERSHIP
Margery Arnold smiles after a great performance.

SPECTATING
Wildcat fans anticipate a touchdown.

INVOLVEMENT

Students support the Student Council by dressing up as nerds during Homecoming week.

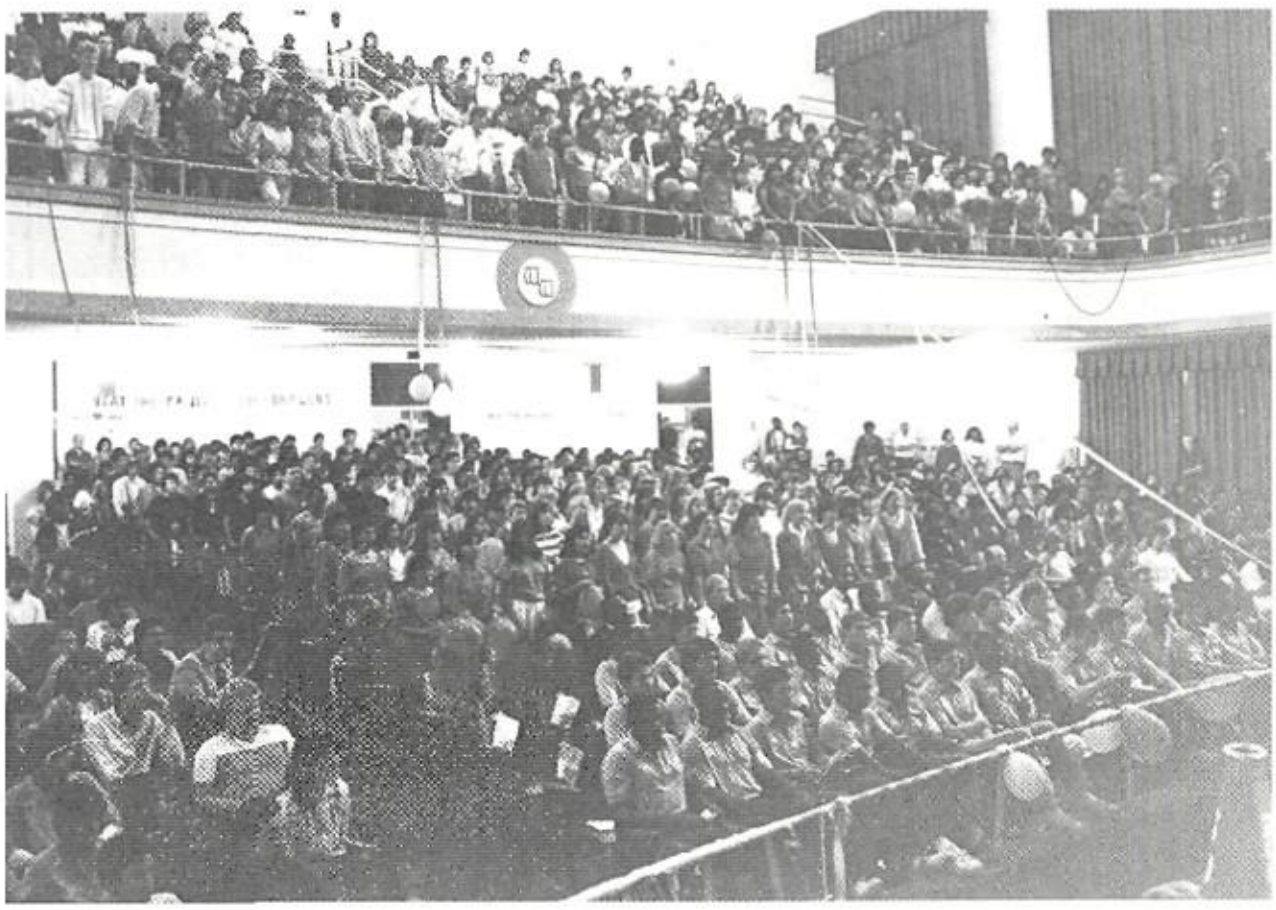

DEDICATION

Gail Drury jumps out of a pyramid formation.

UNITY

CROWDS

People fill the auditorium to show spirit at a pep assembly for the Seagoville game.

WINTER

Sara Cely, Robin Miller, Laura Erickson, Danny Regalado hurry to school on a cold day.
